Let a Hundred Flowers Bloom . . . Let a Hundred Schools of Thought Contend . . .

A new air of individual freedom reigned over Amelia High School. This year, the administration gave the students more opportunities to express themselves. Teaching stressed individualization; the student government became more active; the study halls and lunch periods were less constricted; and the dress code was more relaxed.

"Let a hundred flowers bloom . . . Let a hundred schools of thought contend . . ." sums up the new attitude of educational institutions toward the individual. The new freedom allowed each student to shape his own course of study and his extracurricular activities more than in former years. In a sense, Amelia High School students were able to "bloom" freely.

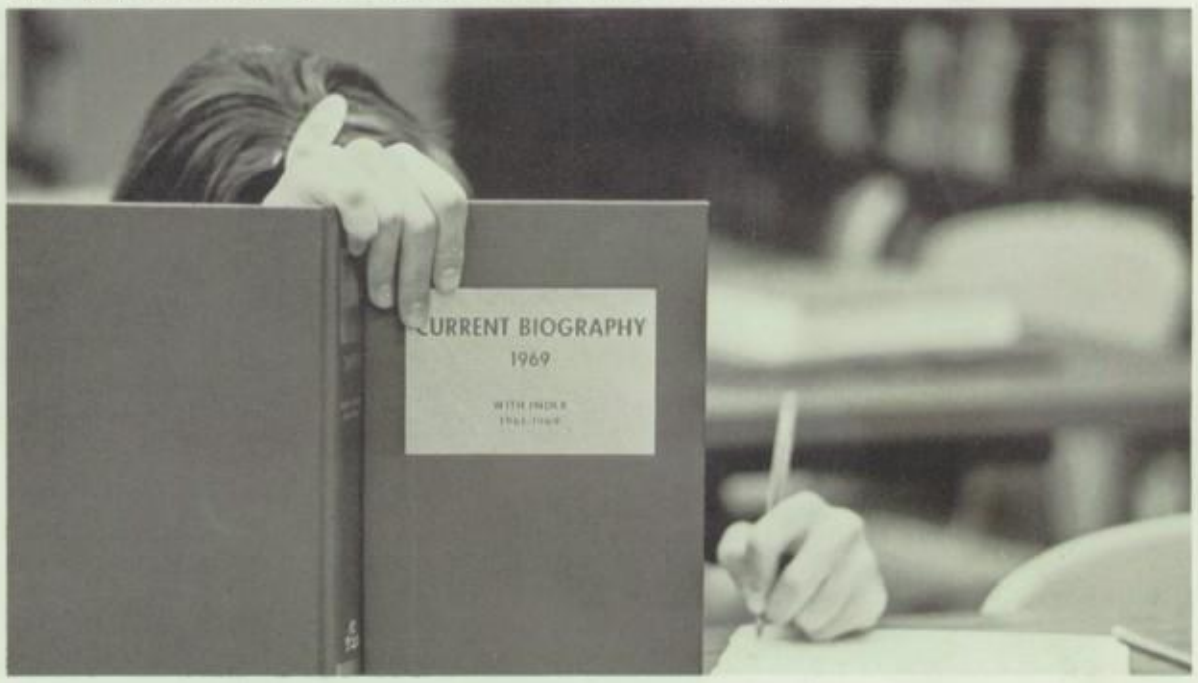
College Preparatory Courses Undergo a Change

Academically, most of the courses at Amelia High School were tuned to the students' needs as separate and distinct entities instead of as a group.

Individualization in classes took many forms. In English 9, American History, and Math I, teams of three or four teachers conducted a large class, often dividing a class of 100 into smaller groups, according to each student's rate of progress. In other courses, the contract system was used. The student agrees at the beginning of the nine weeks to work for a certain grade by completing the work stipulated for that grade. Thus, students were able to work at their own speed and with others with the same interests.

policy of putting groups of stu-
halls to study.

Library work is an important part of most individual study courses.



Hal Good and Debbie Sears delve into the world of chemistry.

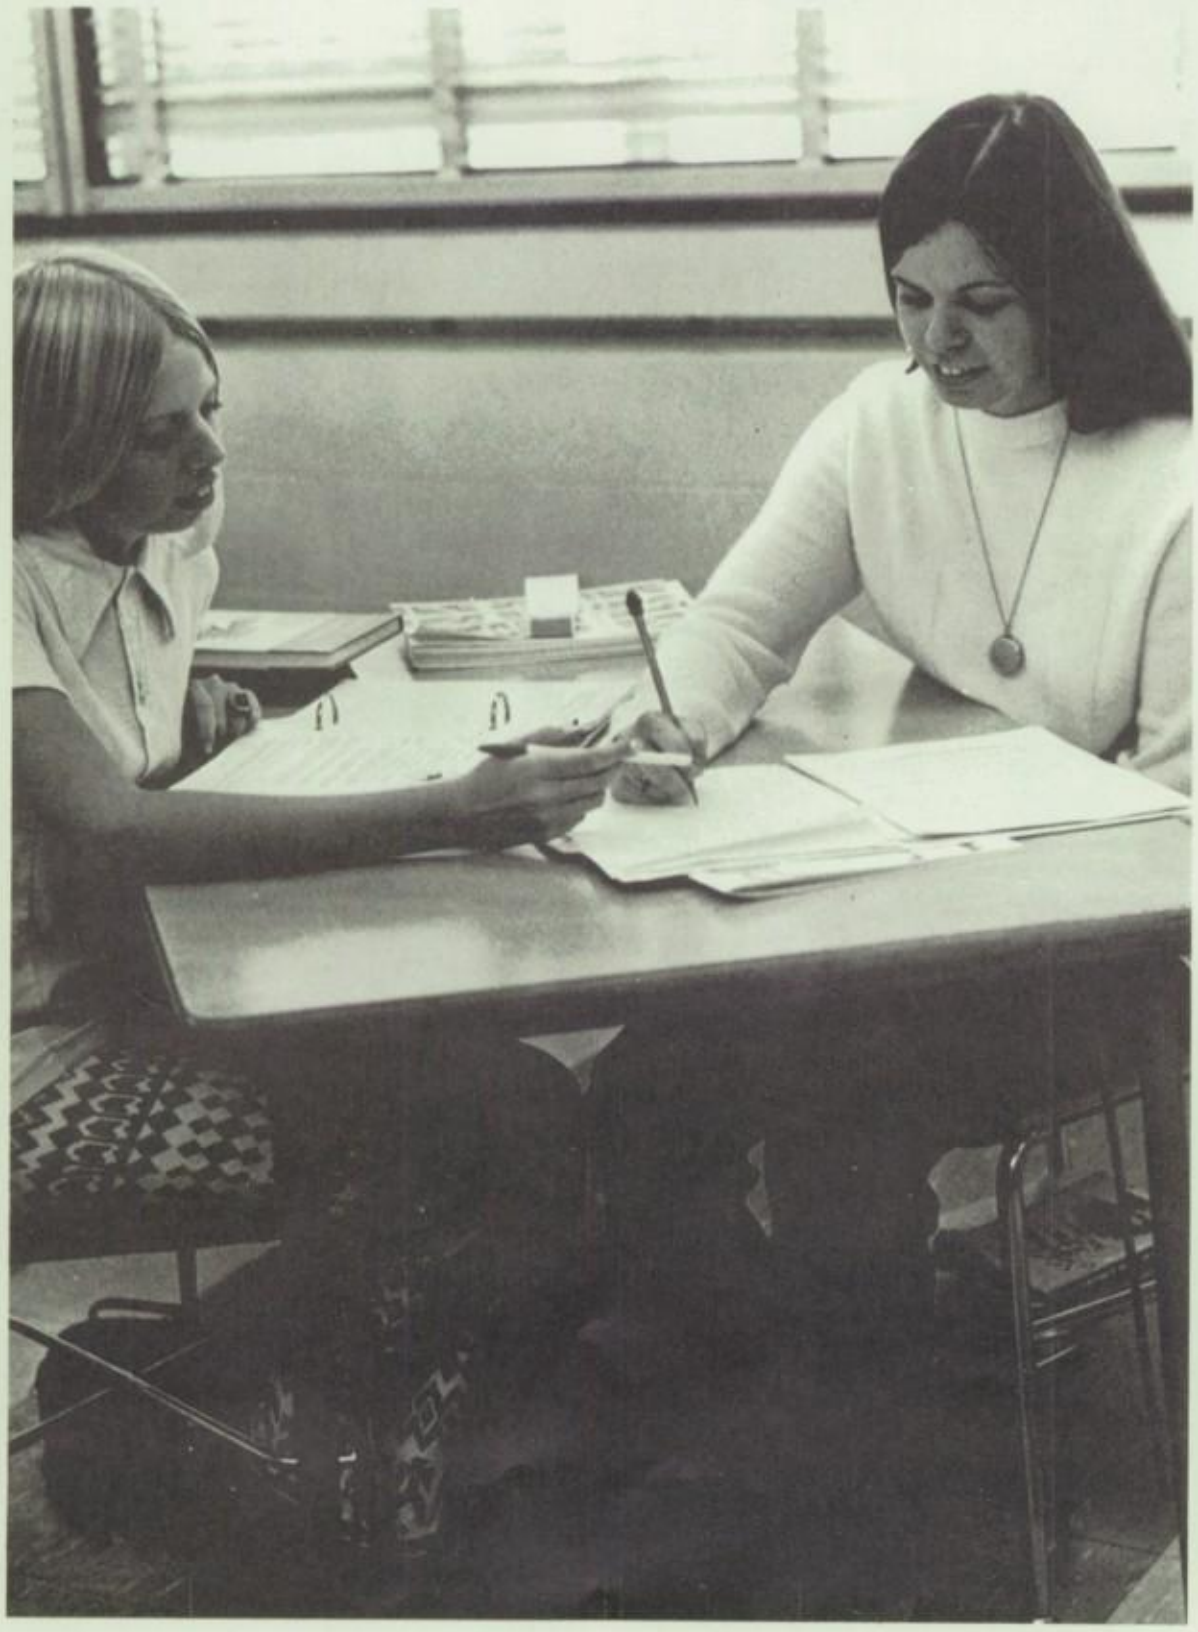
In Industrial Arts, Chris Rupert learns to work metal.

Distributive Education students take a coffee break.

Choice in Vocational Education Increases

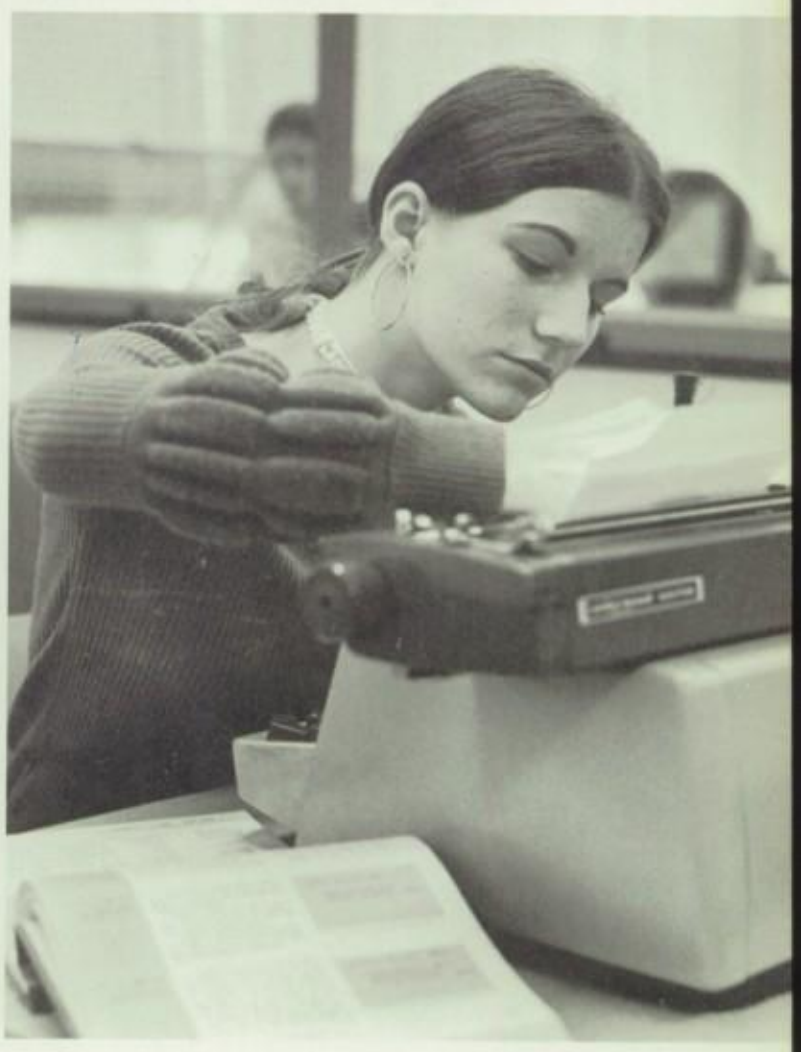
The horizons of vocational education have broadened considerably in the past few years. Students chose from a wide range of job training, emerging from high school ready for employment.

Many kinds of programs were available to the Amelia High School student. He was able to enter Business-Office Education, Cosmetology, Radio and Television Repair, or Auto Body and Mechanics as a junior, and Cooperative Home Economics or Distributive Education as a senior. Other courses in Metal and Wood Working, Drafting, Graphics, and Home Economics were offered to underclassmen.



As part of the Cooperative Home Economics program, Sandy Carter and Beth Dugan prepare folders on their jobs outside of school.

During her Business-Office Education class, Judy Barbro erases a mistake in her typing.



Jurgas Rudkus and His Hard Luck Lithiuanians (Jeff Conley, George Koumoutsos, Gary Brooks, Jeff Hatfield, and, not shown, Jim Cummins) serve as an extra added attraction at a pep assembly.

Pam Hanselman shows her school spirit by singing the fight song at a pep assembly.

During her free period, Barb Nicholas helps out in the office.

Organizations Spark Interest

Organizations prepared the individual for the future. At Amelia High School, three main kinds of organizations had developed.

Service organizations foreshadowed community projects in which Amelia alumni will be engaged in the future. Aiding the administration in making this school more than a pure educational institution, service organizations, such as the student government, the annual and newspaper staffs, the library and office help, the music department, and the drill team were the foundation of the school.

Interest organizations, such as Chess Club, language clubs, Art Club, and Campus Life, enabled students to meet others with the same hobbies and interests.

Vocational clubs, such as DECA, the BOE clubs, and CHE club, were associated with vocational education programs. Their function was to promote interest in the business world in which their members will be involved after they graduate.

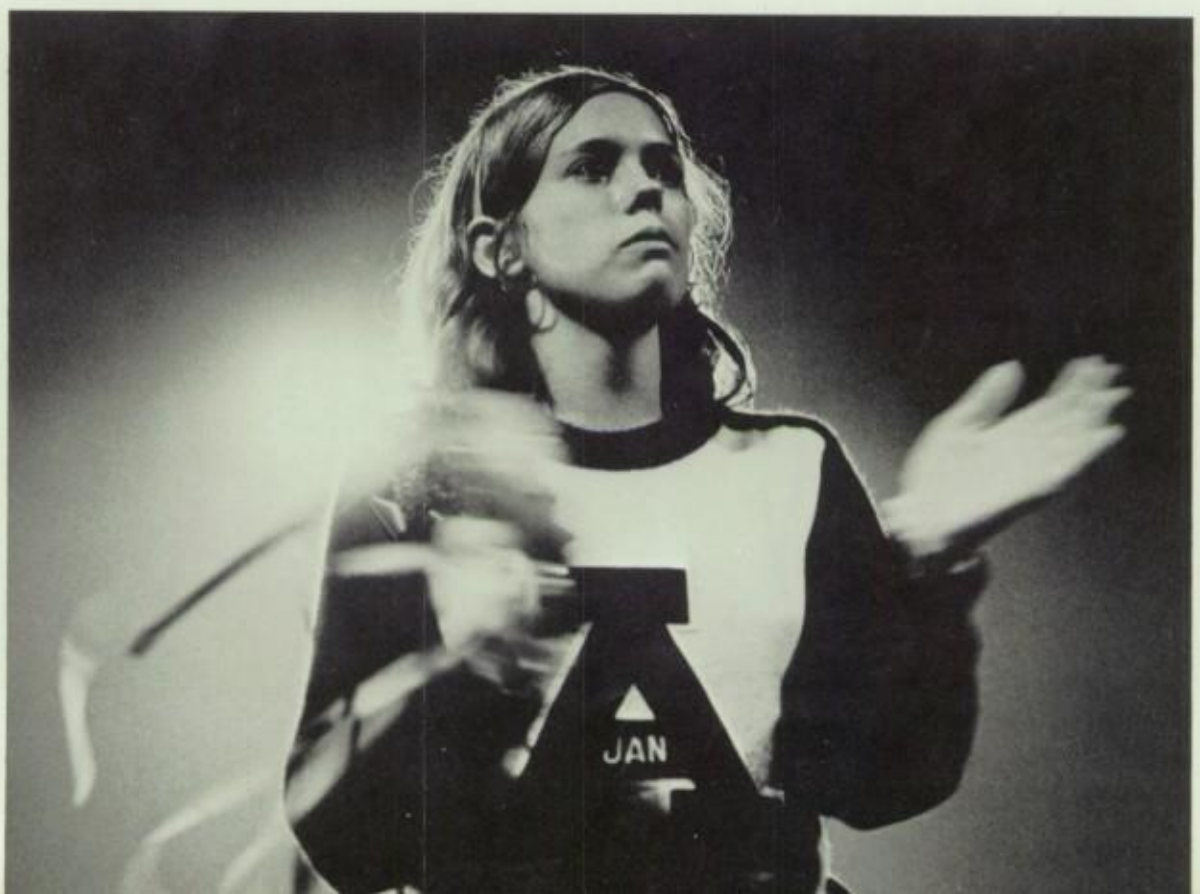
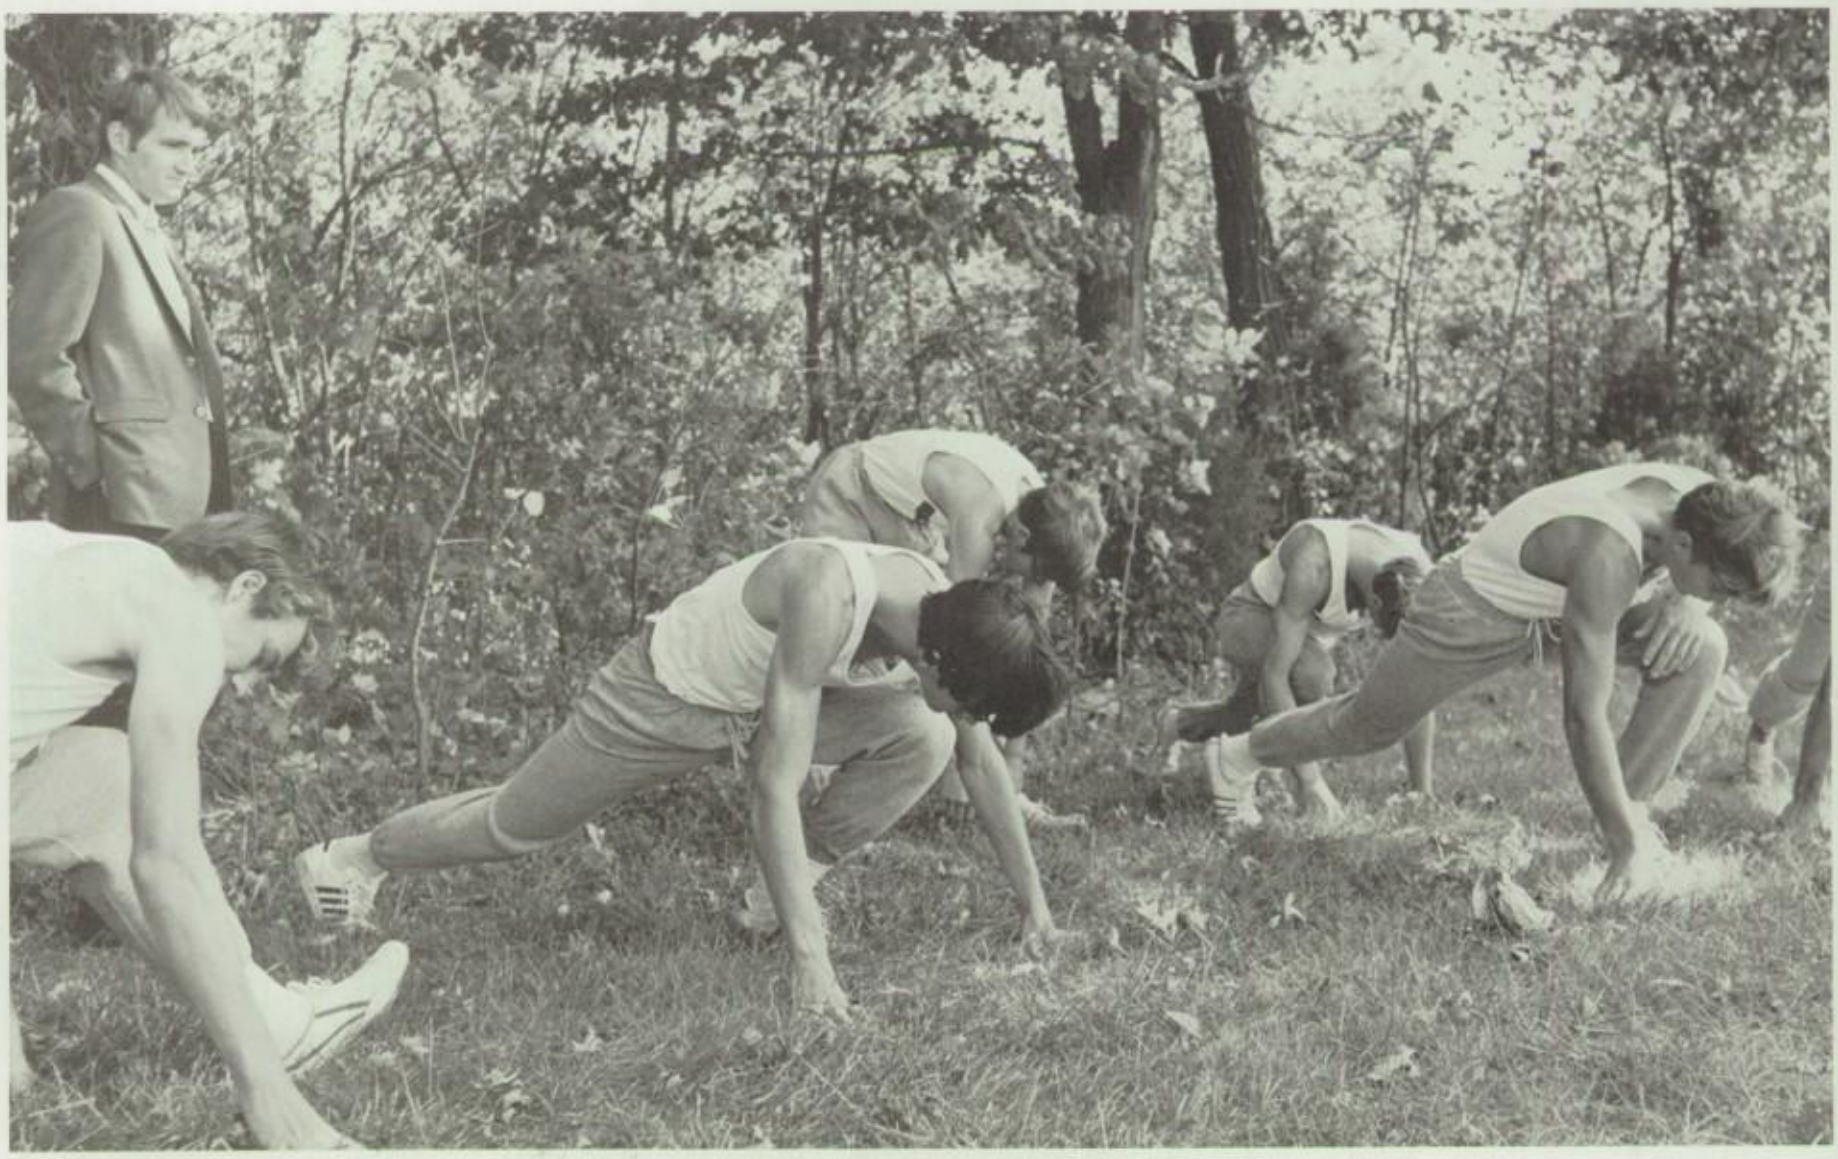
team performs at a game.

Doggedly facing student disinterest, Jan McCracken leads a cheer.



Rick Reinert blocks a Rocket's shot for the basket.

Coach Patterson looks on as the Cross Country team performs their warm-up exercises.



Sports Build Character of Individual

Among Amelia High School's many activities, sports alone did not suddenly convert to individualism. Athletics had always depended on the determination and drive of the individual. Being on an Amelia team involved long hours of grueling practice which often caused many to drop out. However, those who possessed the tenacity to weather pre-season hardships reaped their reward in the excitement of a varsity game. Whether our team placed third, as did the football team, or won the Clermont County League Championship, as did the basketball team, the individual definitely profited from his experiences.

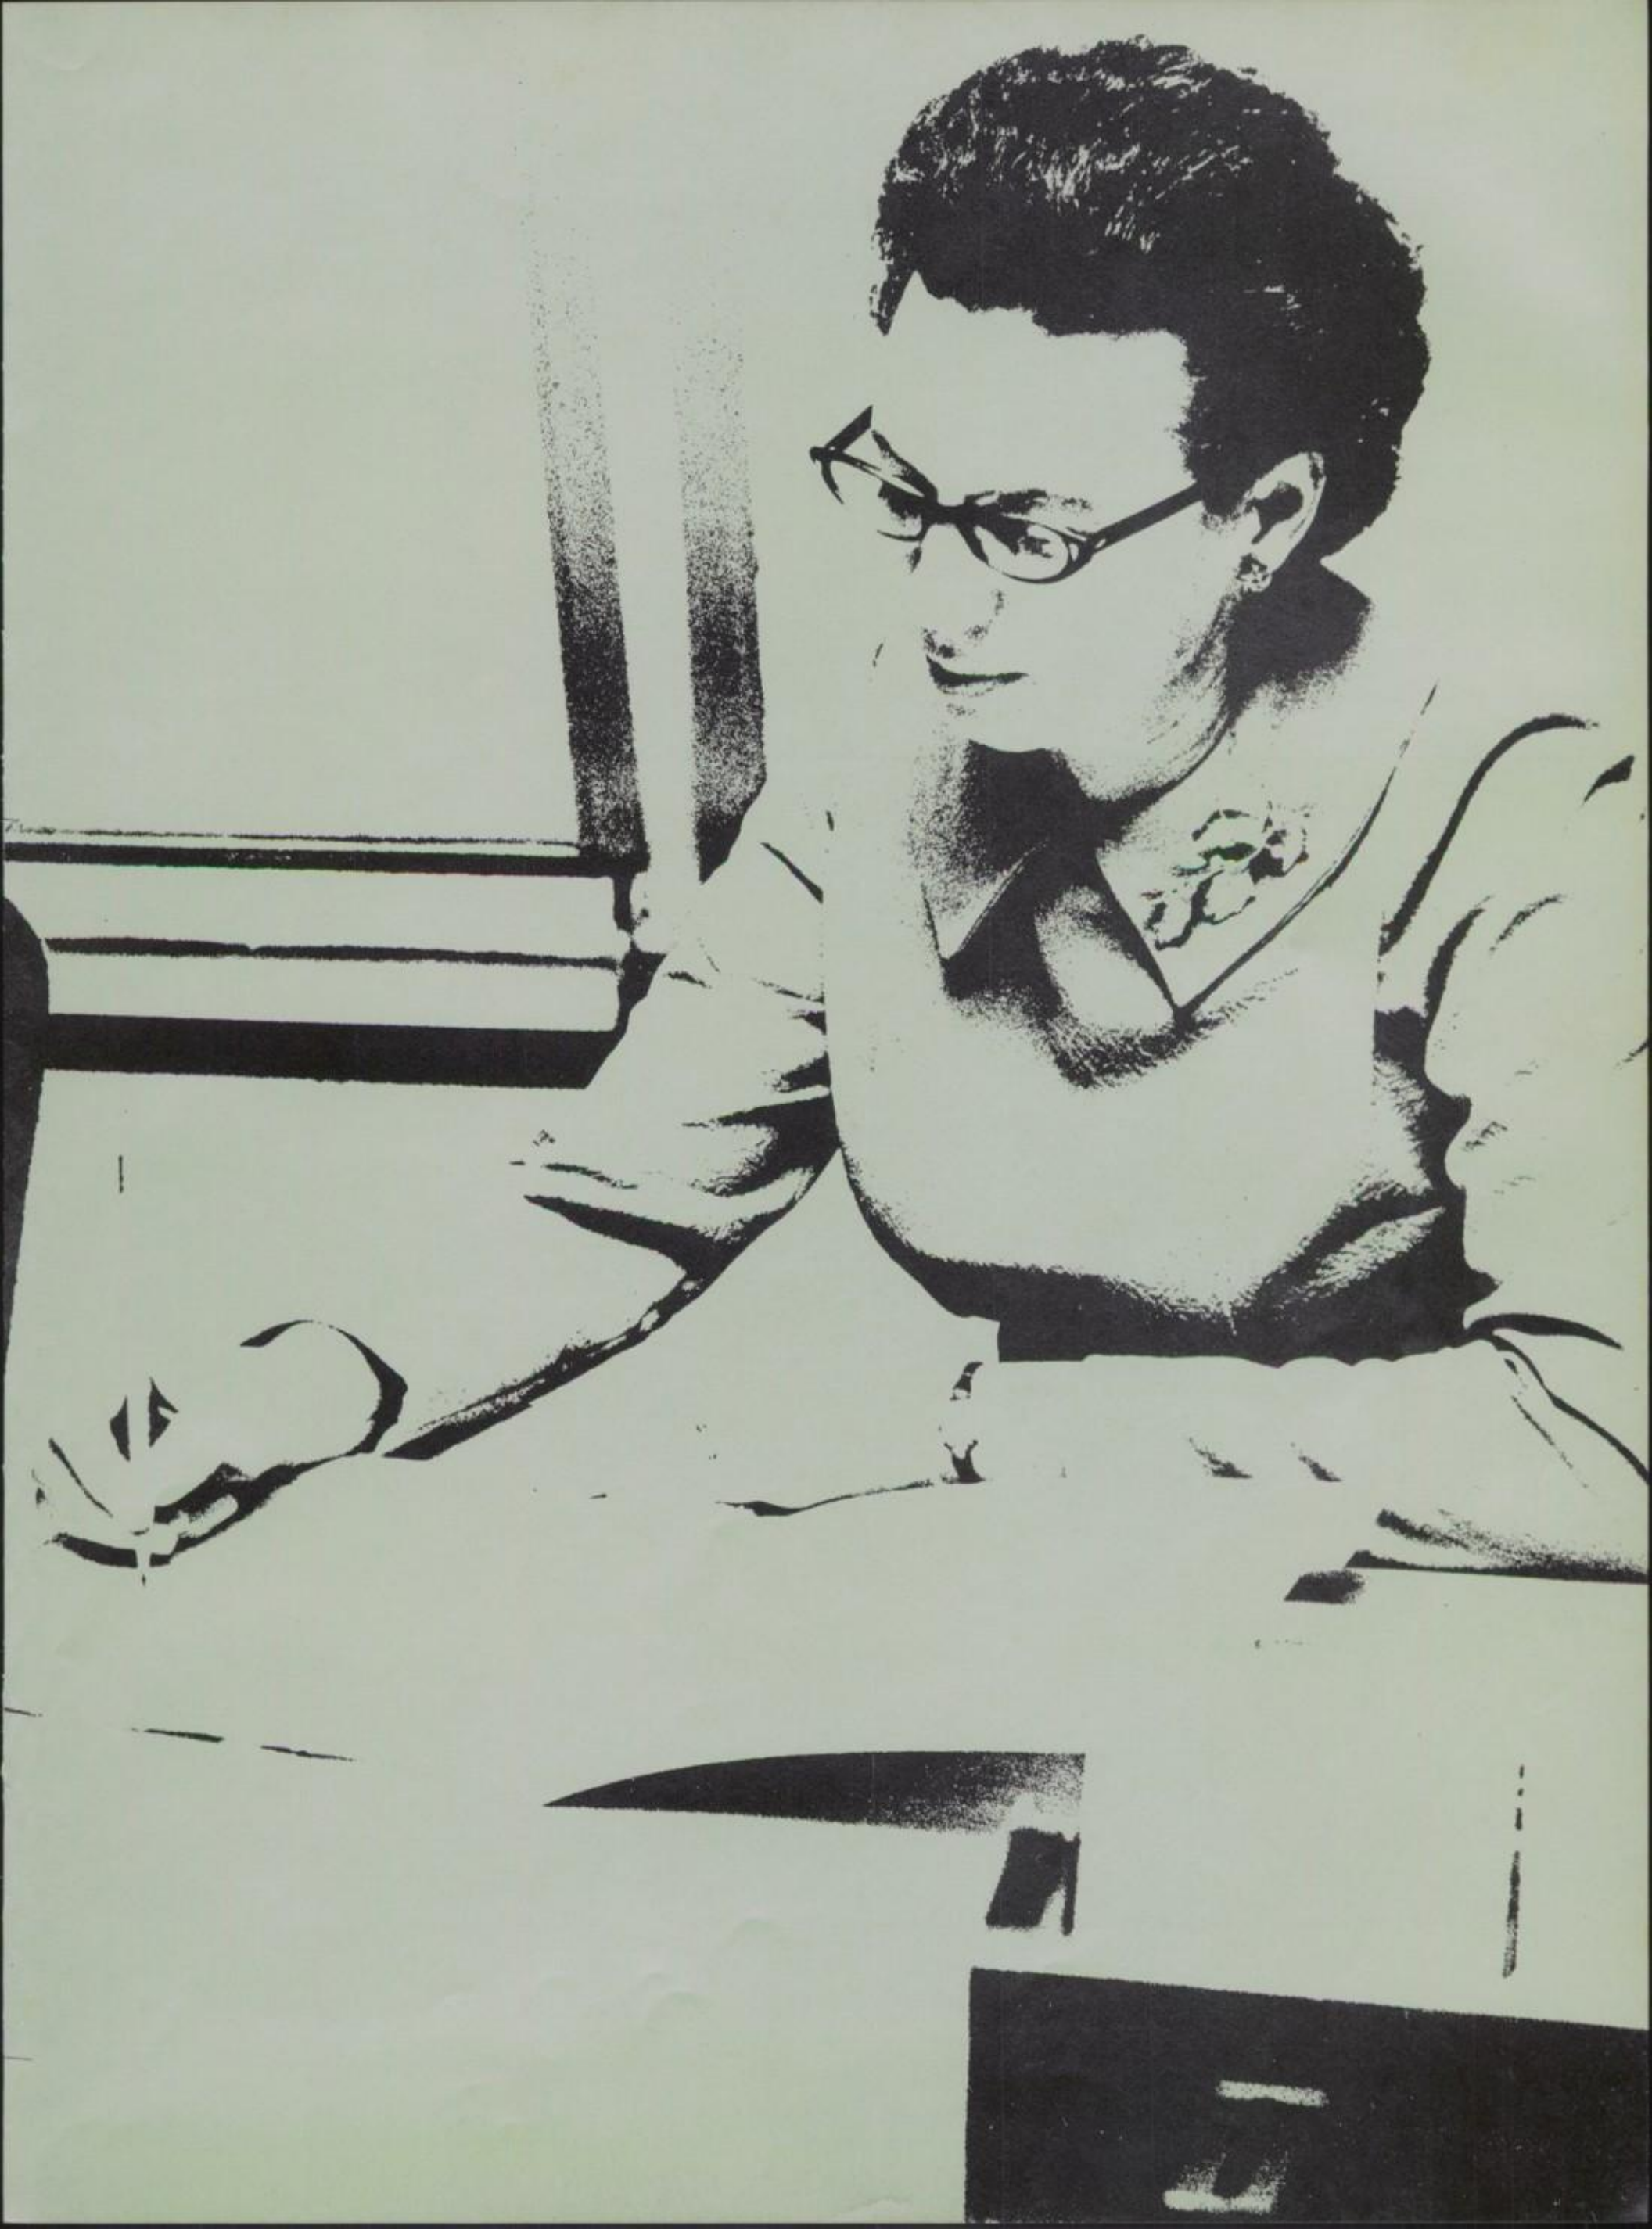
Faculty



Administration Heads Our School

Amelia High School was graced with an easy-going Administration this year. Except for occasional flare-ups, the Adminstration permitted the students to do what they preferred. Only in extreme cases were the students curbed about the way they dressed or wore their hair. It would be hard to find another Administration that could serve Amelia High as well as the one we had this year.

Career Programs Shape Futures

The Trade and Industrial Education program, The Distributive Education program, the Business Education program, and the Health Occupations program are assorted derivatives of one goal - to make it possible for students to find work in a particular occupational field. Each program approaches students in another manner most suitable to the occupation it represents, and each program ultimately seeks to either simulate working conditions or find an actual position in the business community.

Four Counselors Aid Students

The two counselors for the students with education problems this year were Mrs. Jones and Mr. Liming. They helped with problems within the school as well as advising upperclassmen on their careers in later years.

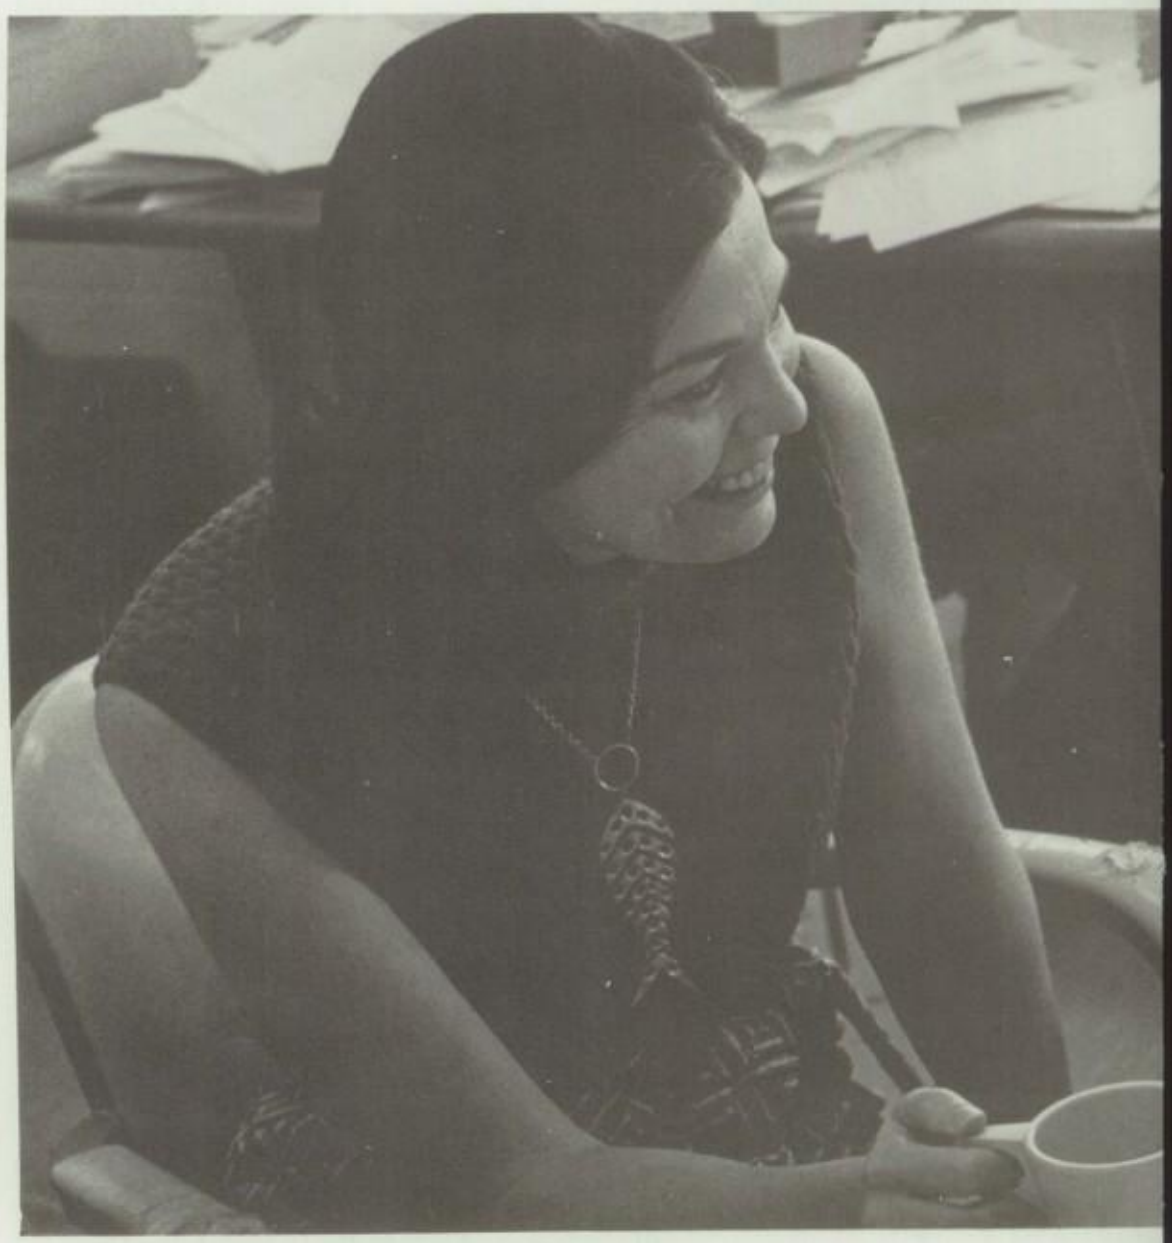
Mrs. Fizer, the librarian, believed that more important than helping students in the library was to teach the students to help themselves.

The woman that served as counselor in the health department this year was the nurse, Mrs. Stevens.

Mrs. Stevens promotes her skills with the scales.

Mrs. Fizer teaches the freshmen to help themselves by using the card catalogue.

Mr. Liming works out another schedule mix-up.



Mrs. Jones relaxes on a morning coffee break.

Mrs. Ossman and Mrs. Gumm chat in the Sewing Room.

Applied Technology Expands

In applied technology, two programs stand out as definite improvements. A class opened in cooking-techniques geared to the interest of boys, and inquisitive girls could enroll in a home maintenance course. Reviewing their program carefully, the teachers decided that their expenditures would be most effective for the betterment of the students.

A sight seldom seen. - Mr. Pickrell, Mr. Caudill, and Mr. Rosenhoffer cleaning up.

Math and Science Individualizes

This year the Math and Science department was one that experimented with the new individualization program. Some of the teachers were put into teams and given a large amount of students to work with. On some days the class would get a lecture, and other days the teachers would walk around and give individual help to the students. They were permitted to finish sections and take tests on their own time.

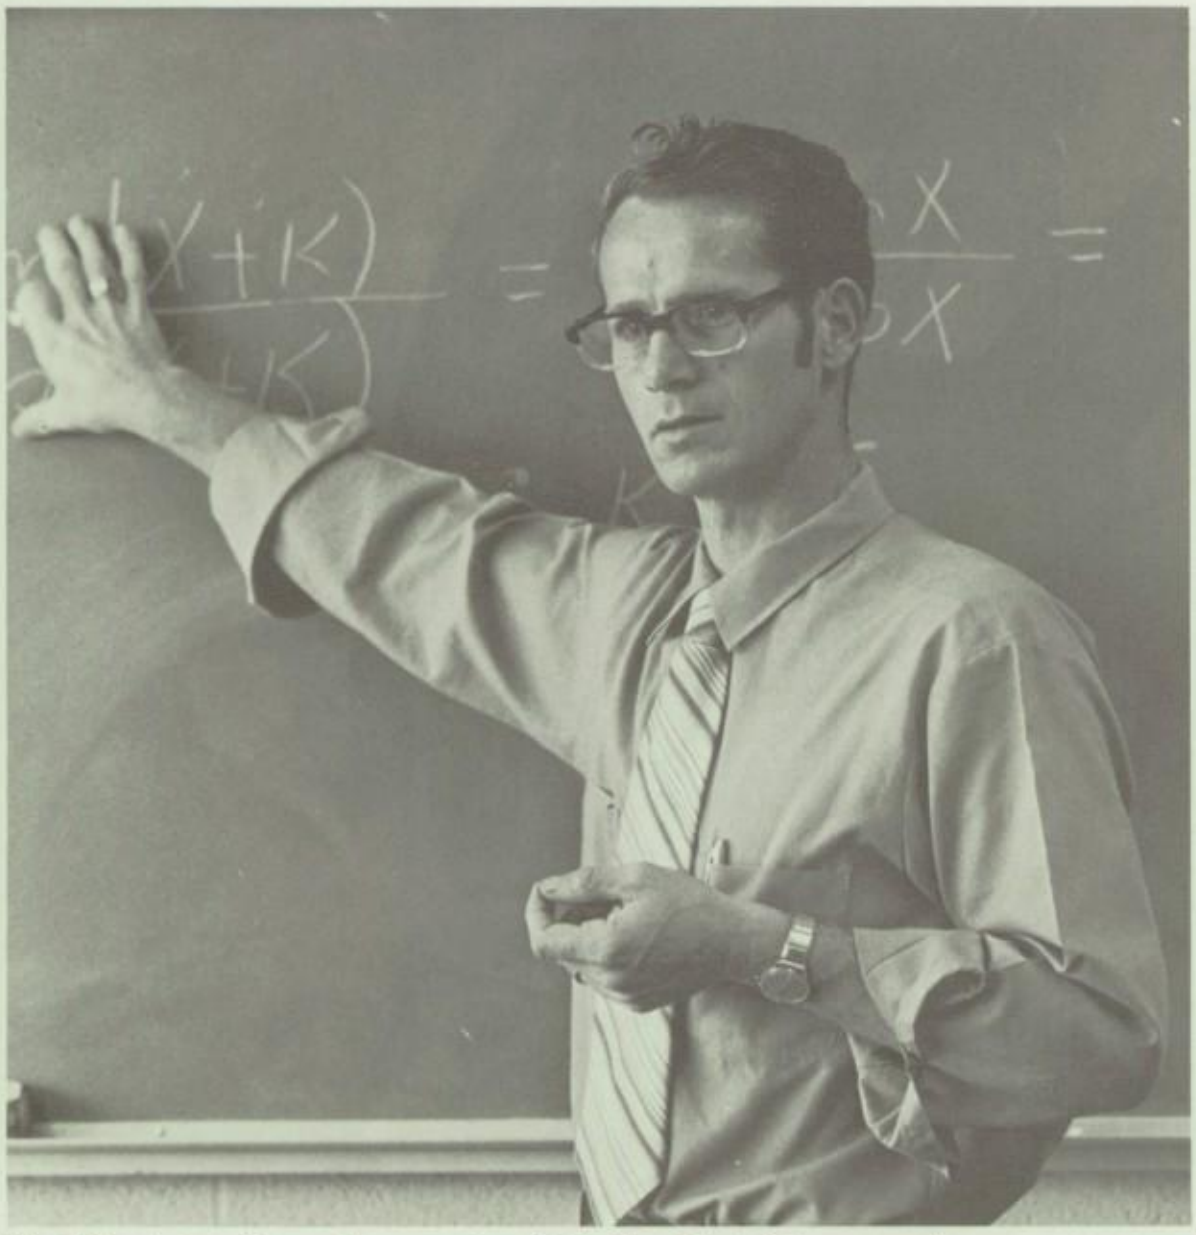
Mrs. Pence and Mr. Creasy find the workroom's atmosphere relaxing.

Mr. Dietz emphasizes the basics of Physics to Jim Cummins.

Mr. Stewart lectures to his freshman Biology students.

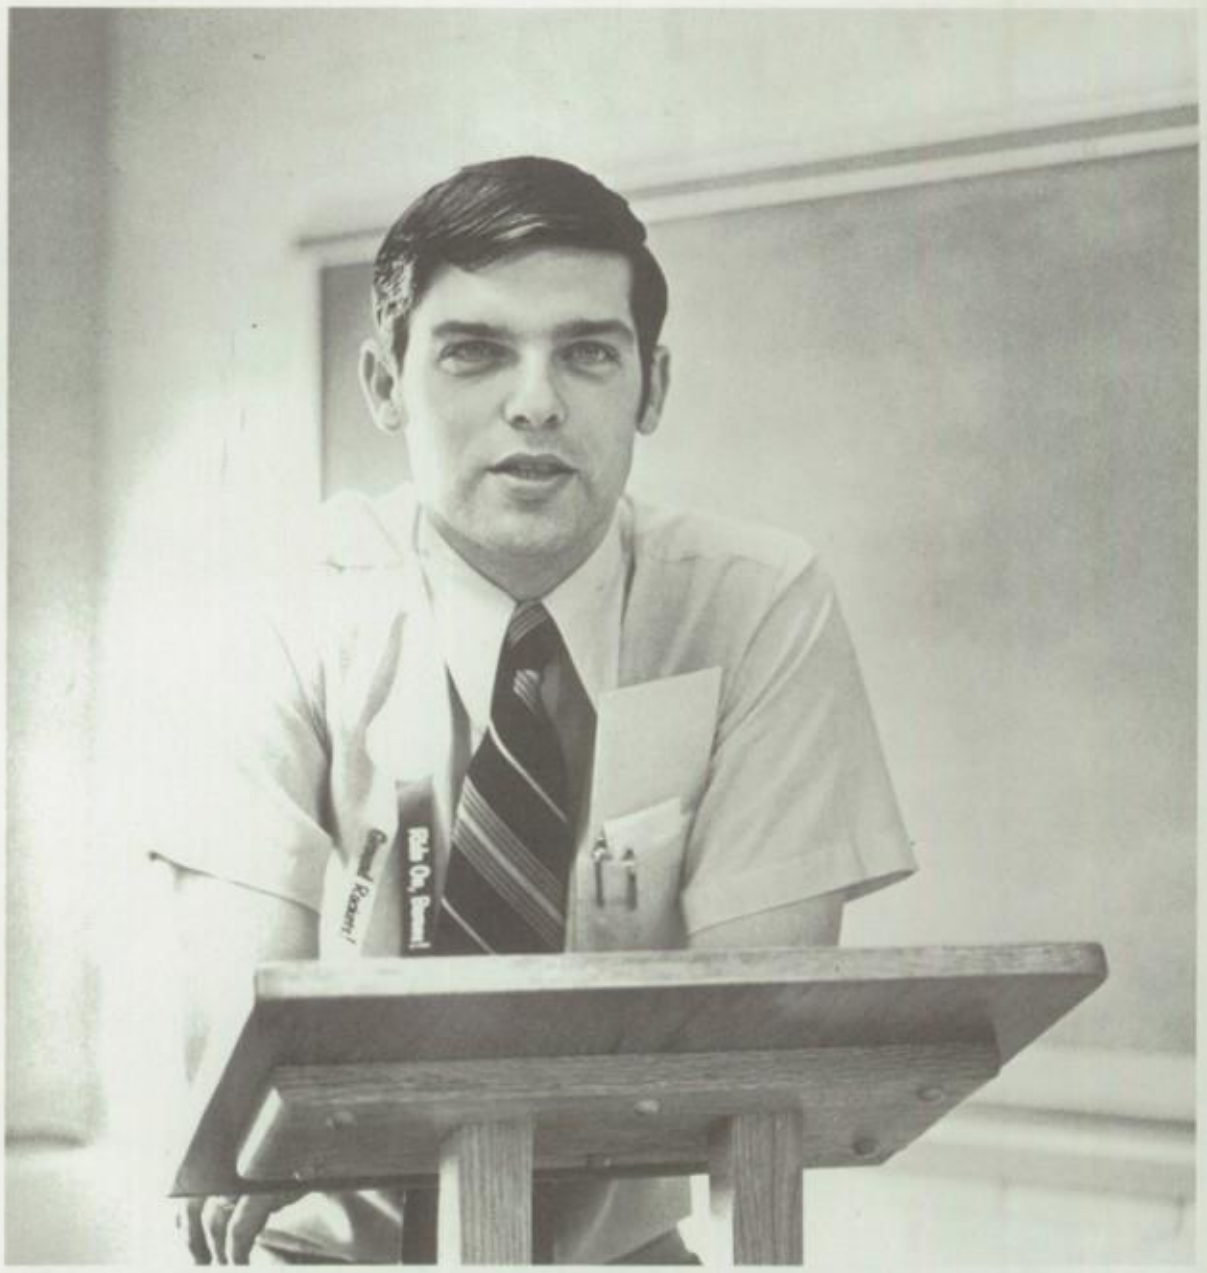


Mr. Miracle transforms the mysteries of Algebra II into his own words.

Mr. Lindell reviews the procedures for the next Chemistry experiment.

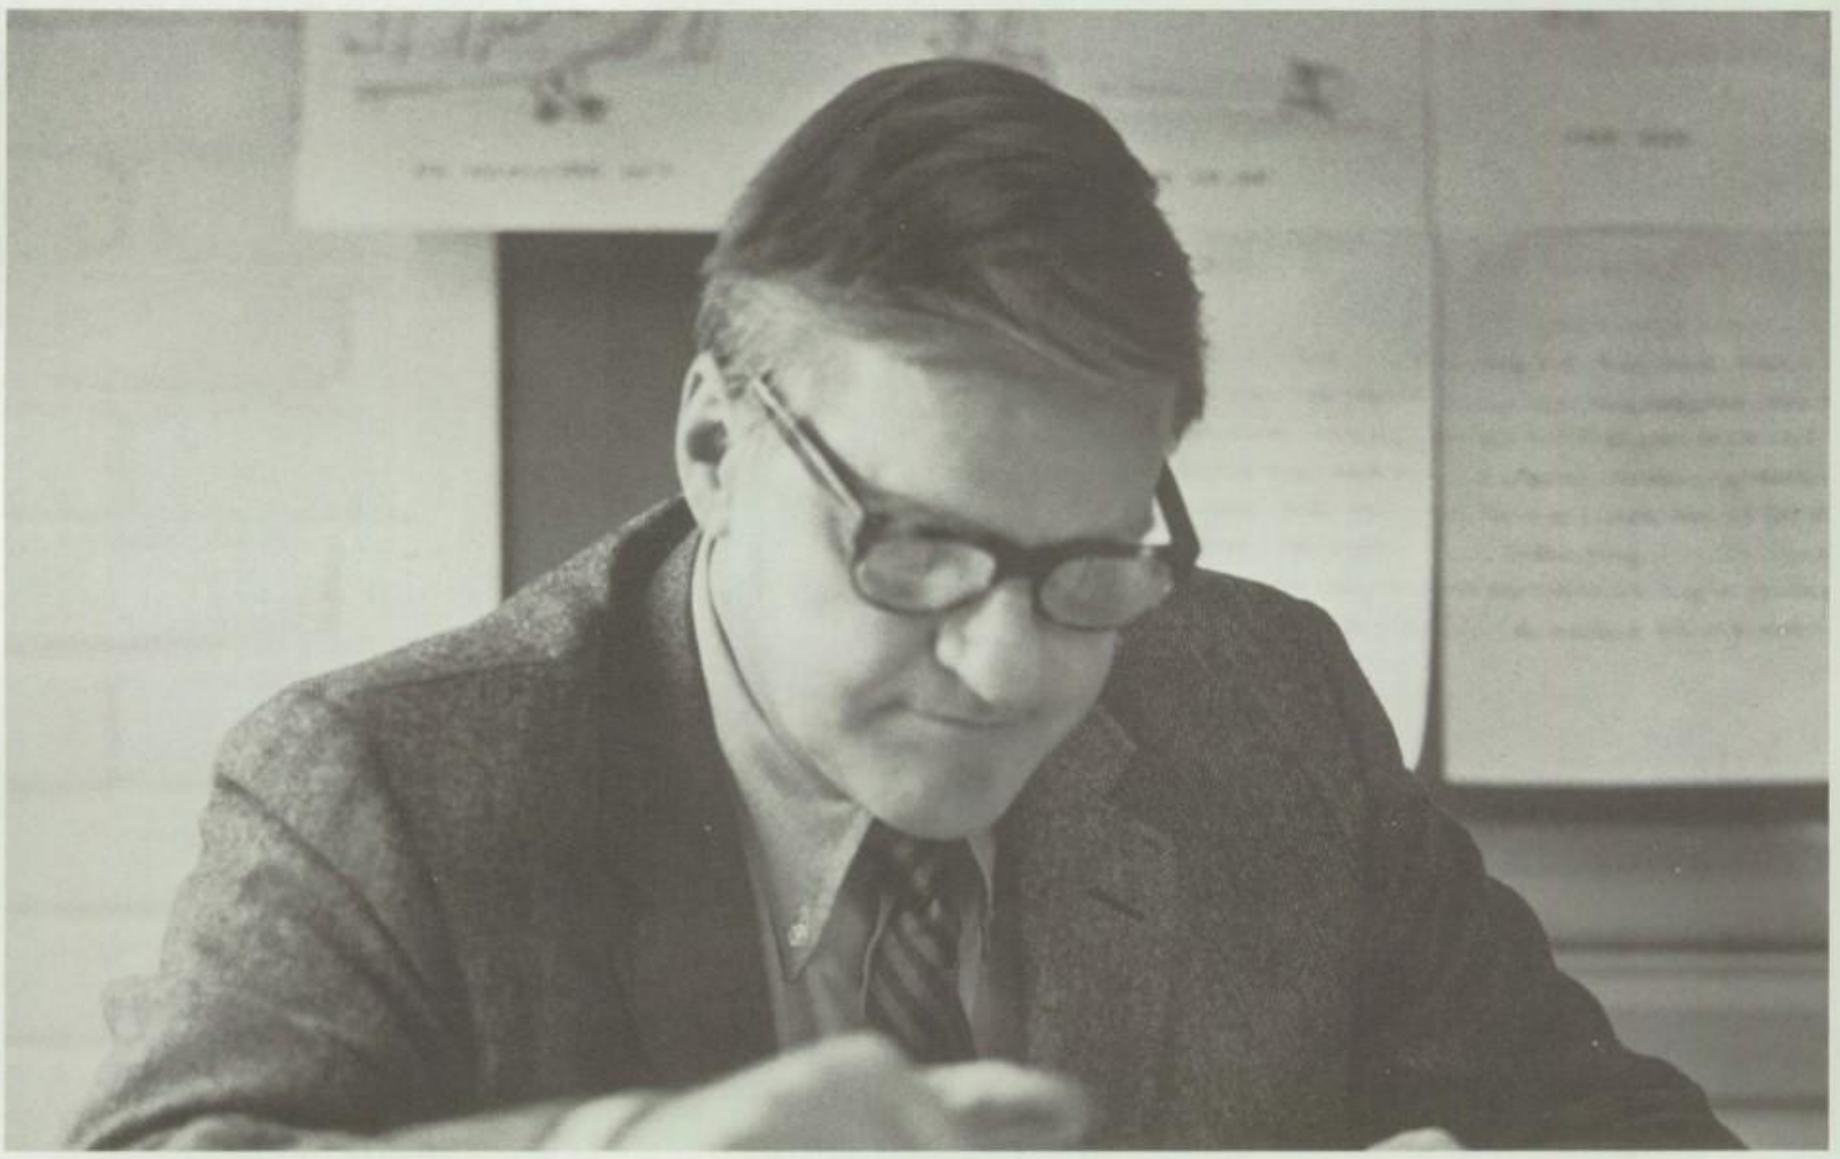
Mini Courses Experimental

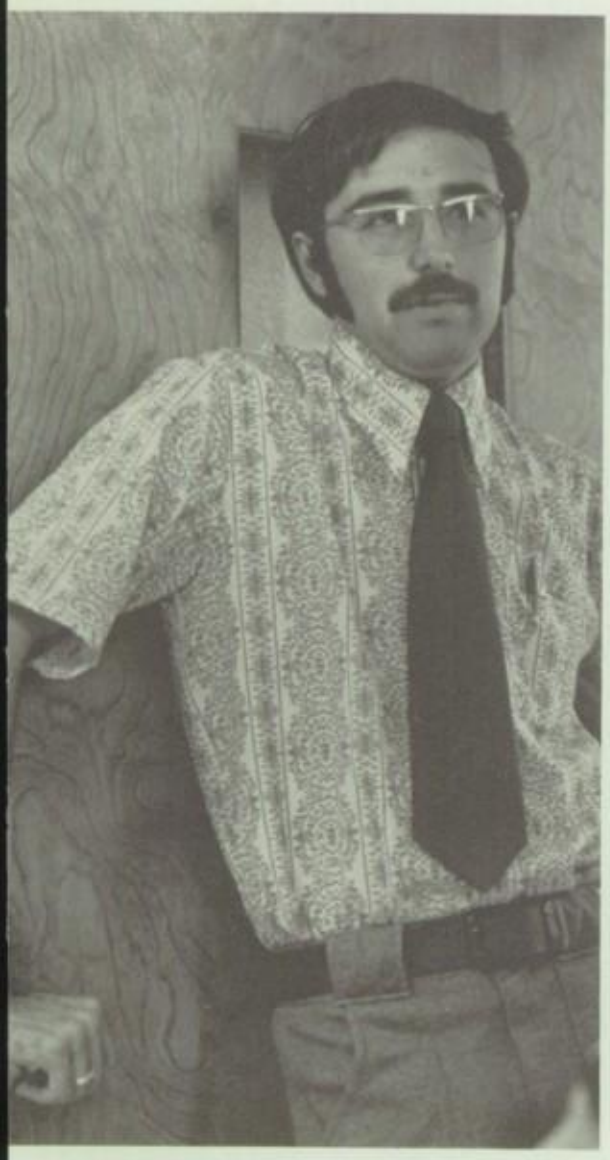
Turning to neglected vistas in social studies, the department conceived nine-week courses according to a geographical and problematic basis. Another aspect utilized was the unsuccessful attempt at "team teaching" in the course in American History for Juniors. Some of the "mini courses" offered were Current Events, Negro in American History, India-Pakistan, and Australia-Canada.



Mr. Murphy lectures on Contemporary Civilization.

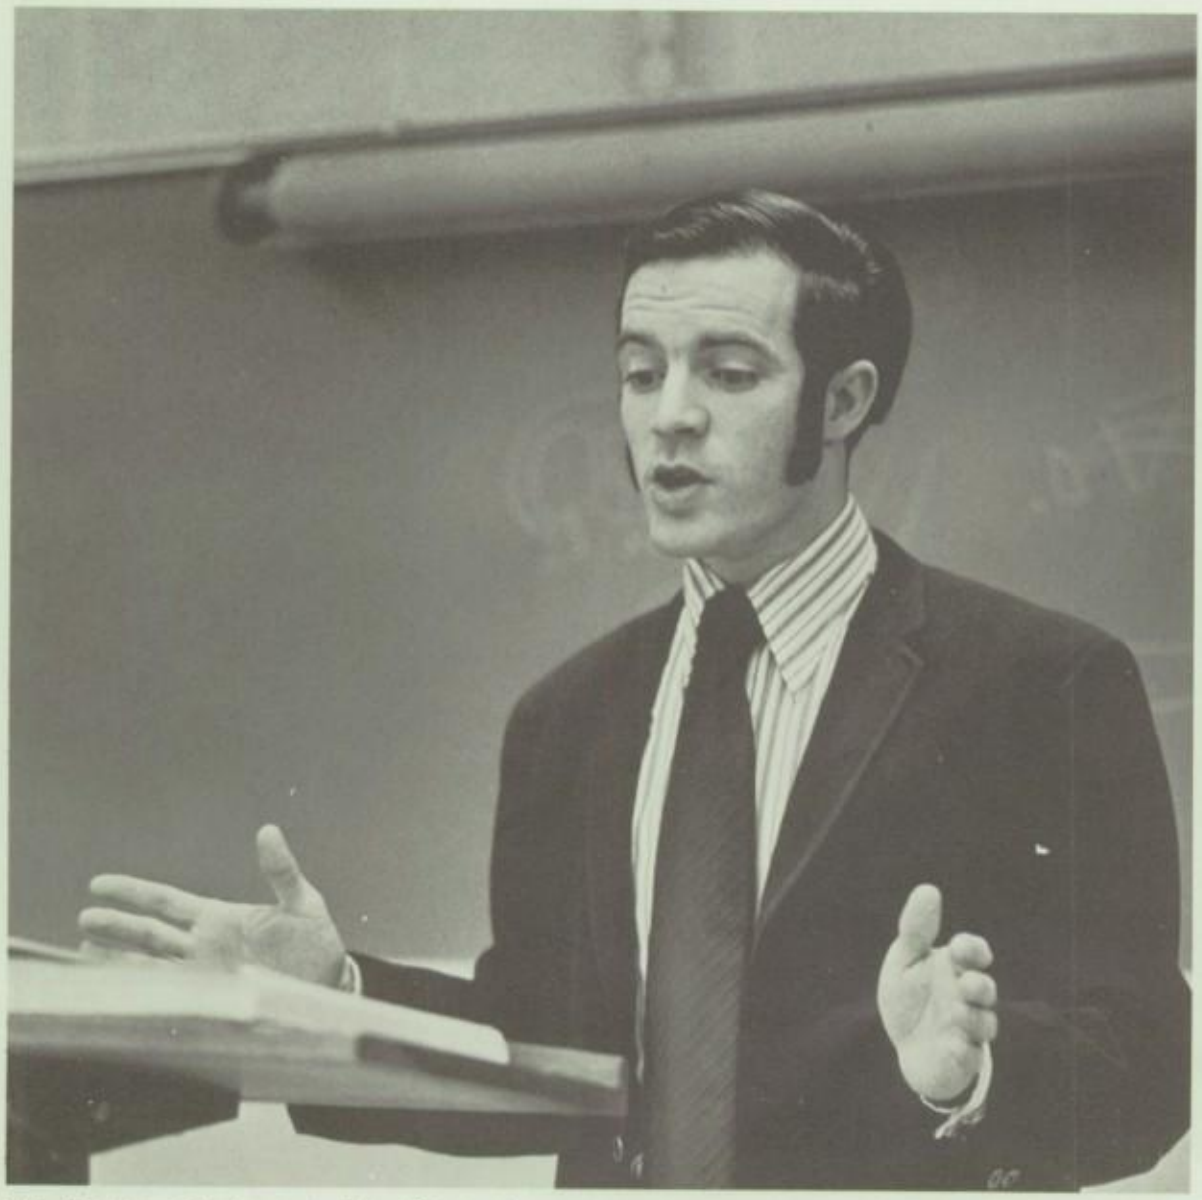
Mr. Schaudig corrects reports.





Mr. Hilleary waits by the door for some "latecomers" to his class.

Mr. Angus pauses while grading papers.



Mr. Sergeant lectures to his Africa class.

Mrs. Walker enjoys conversation with her students.

Team Teaching Is Emphasized in English

The English Department touches all students in the school except those in special business programs and those seniors who do not elect a fourth year of Language Arts.

This year the emphasis was on a team approach with four teachers rotating among 380 ninth grade students four periods a day. In addition, tentative approaches to an eventual individualized technique were being tried out in many other classes, from which radically different courses will emerge in the future. Open-minded faculty members with long-range goals are discarding much that was traditional in an effort to make English more practical, interesting, and creative.

Mr. DeMaris tries to explain to his students, but sometimes even he wonders "why"?

Mr. O'Toole's experience enables him to communicate with his students.

Mrs. Luddy organizes her thoughts.

Mr. Gruber wonders where the words will come from to get his ideas across.

Foreign Languages Cultivate Independence

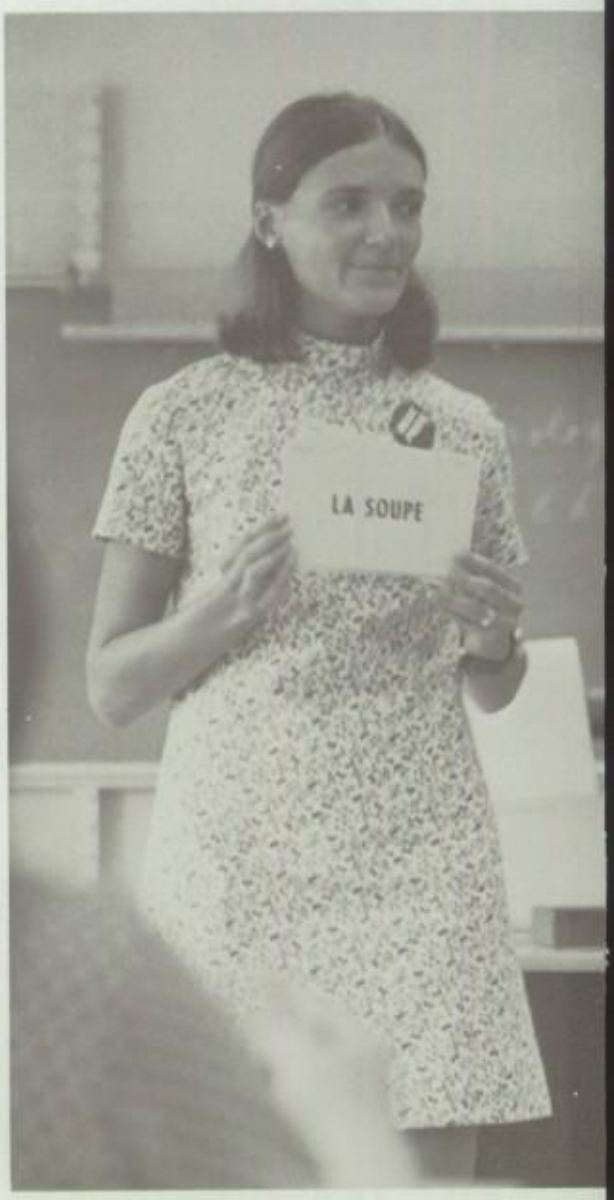
This year two foreign languages were offered at Amelia High. They were French, taught by Mrs. Laurel Hafertepen and Spanish, taught by Mr. Ken Randall.

In French this year, Mrs. Hafertepen provided an actual classroom situation for her French I, II, III students, and letting French IV and V work individually in the language lab.

In Spanish, Mr. Randall did basically the same thing, teaching the newer students and letting the more advanced work on their own.

Mr. Randall informs his Spanish class of a test to be taken the next day.

Mr. Randall and Mrs. Hafertepen "unwind" after a hard day.



Mrs. Hafertepen finds flash cards beneficial to her French I class.

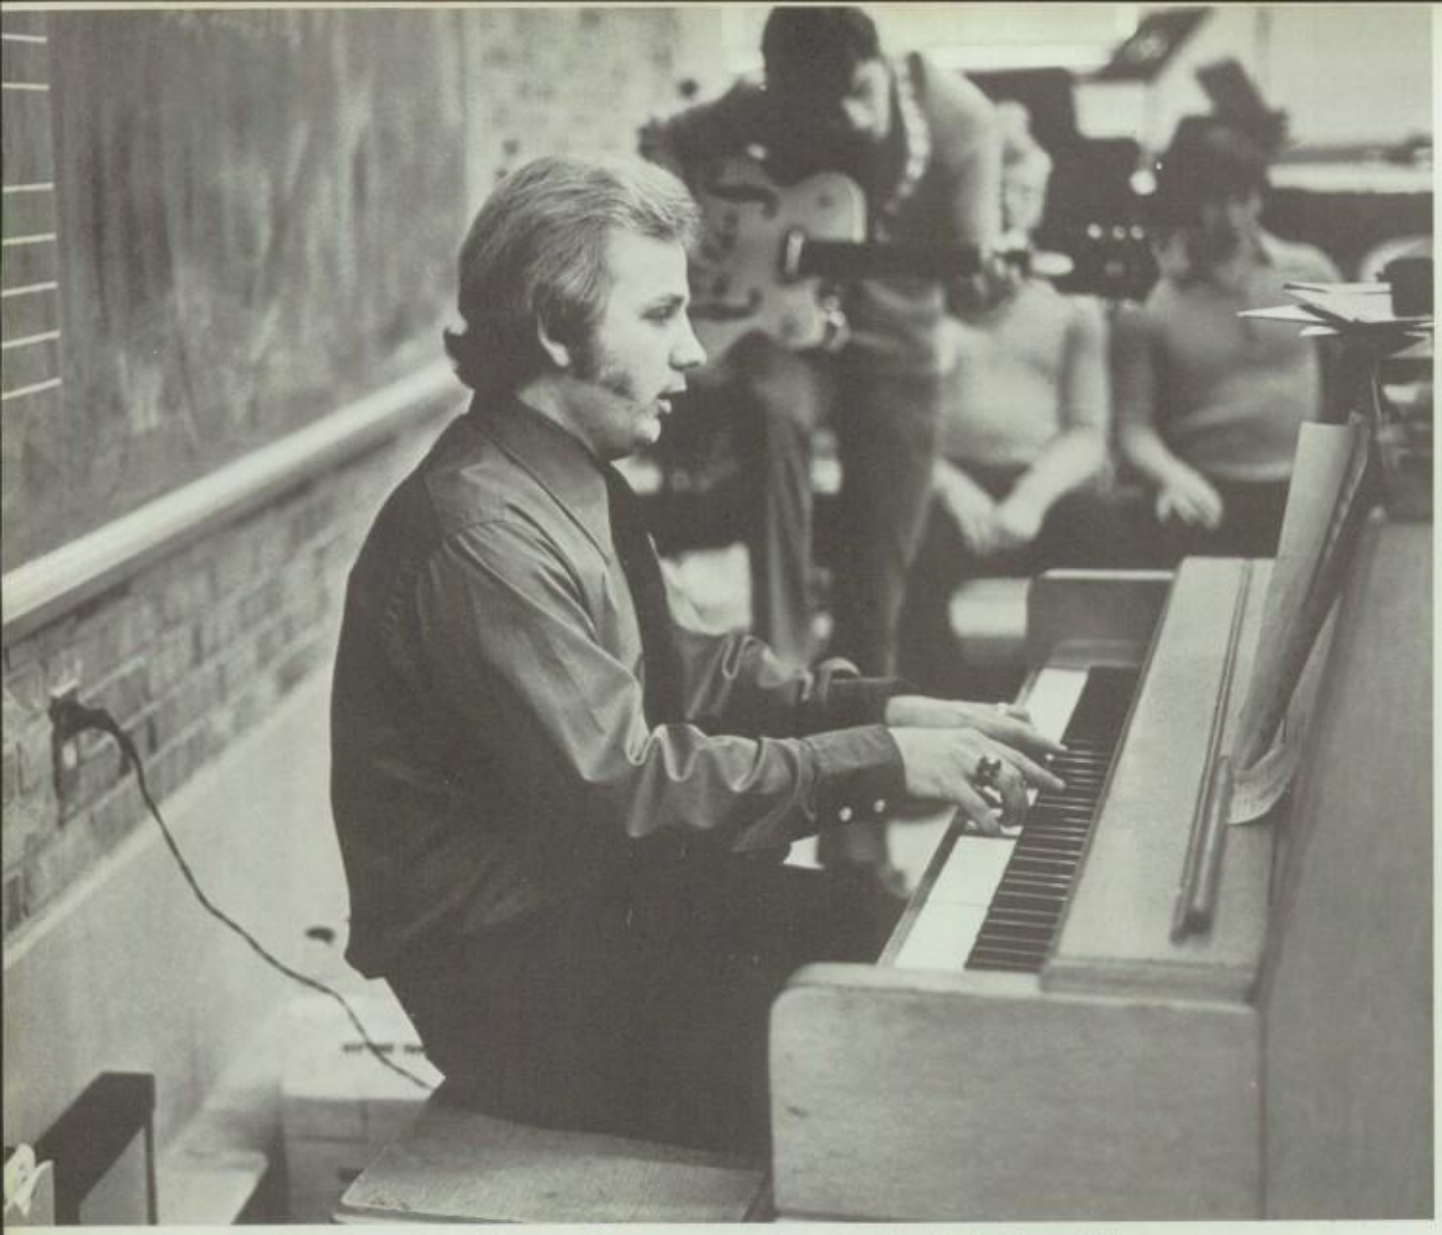
Fine Arts Innovate

Anticipating the many changes in art every year, Miss Kathy Wiegand, art director, presented her students with new techniques which they developed and displayed around the school throughout the year.

The new drama director, Mrs. Lindsey, initiated her students to specialty plays and unique staging ideas.

Both art programs demonstrated their increased assets by presenting both "Art Happening" and several one-act plays open to the student body.

Mrs. Lindsey inspects a script.



Mr. Franklin sight-reads a new number for the Rock Ensemble.

Mr. Robinson directs the Concert Band.

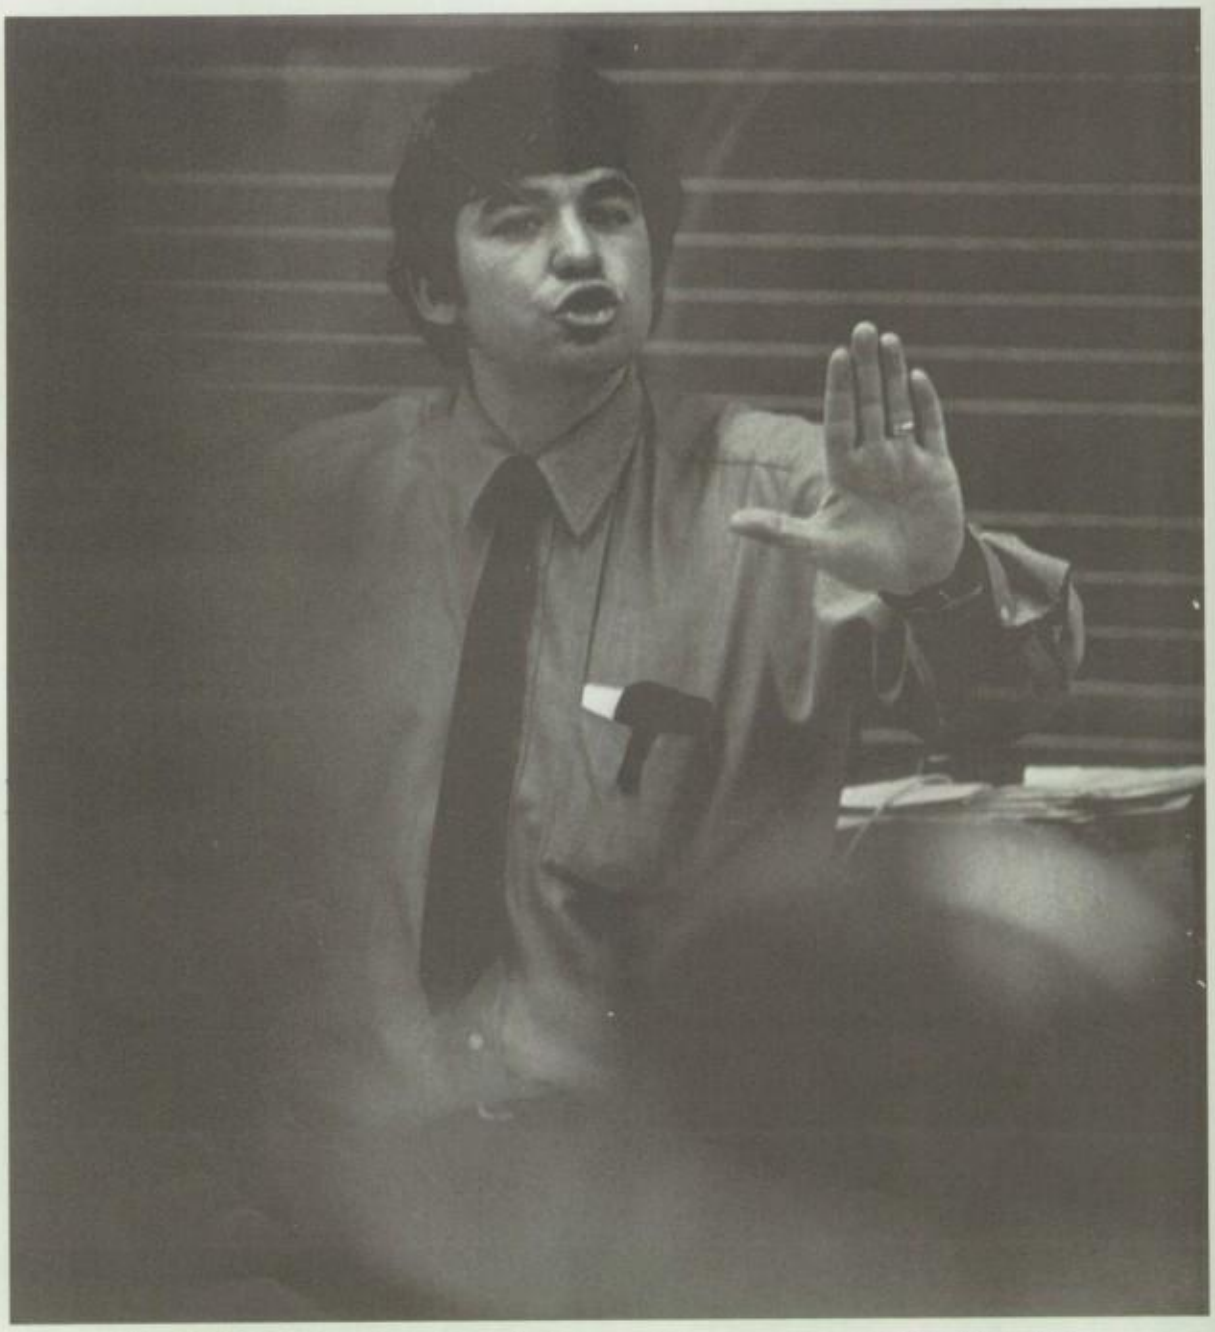
Music Department On the Move

The Music Department was really going places this year.

The instrumental part was headed by Jerry Robinson. It consisted of three main groups: Jazz Ensemble, Wind Ensemble, and Concert Band.

The vocal part was led by Mike Franklin. It consisted of three main groups also: Rock Ensemble, Concert Choir, and Girls Chorus.

The Department highlighted the year with numerous concerts, guest conductors, trips, and contests in the spring.



Mr. Robinson instructs the Wind Ensemble to a quiet part in the music.

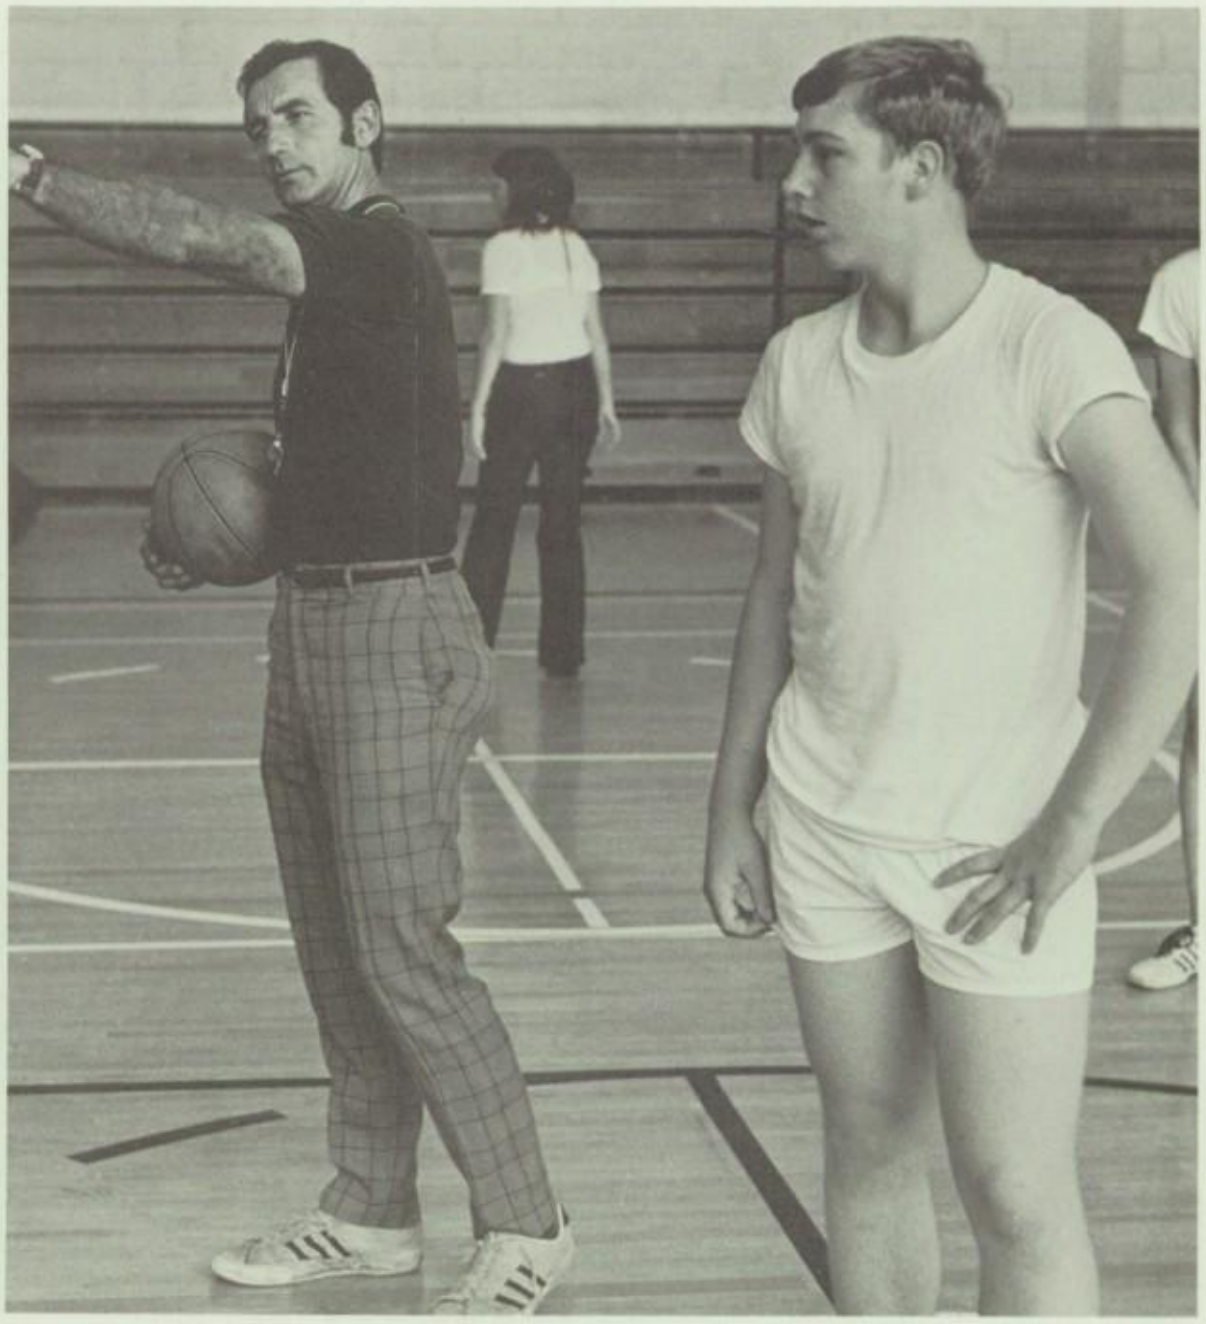
Foul on number 22.

Physical Education Using New Ideas

Boys Physical Education was taught by Mr. Jones and Mr. Steigerwald. The Freshmen and Sophomores were required to take Phys. Ed., and the Freshmen also had to include a Health program. Phys. Ed. III and IV were also offered to Juniors and Seniors.

Girls Physical Education was on the basically same program. Miss Fisher did something a little different this year by offering three or four different courses in a nine weeks so the girls had a little more choice of what they wanted to do.

Mr. Steigerwald sits attentively in a teachers meeting.



Mr. Jones points to a hole in the defense.

Coordinators Perform Many Duties

The duties of the co-ordinaters of the West Clermont system are ones of numerous responsibilities and hard work. They are dedicated to supervising the business in their selected fields. The co-ordinaters strive to better their programs by instilling a sincere pride and interest in the students they are associated with. Organization, cooperation, and new ideas are the three main goals of these dedicated people.

Freshmen Undergo a Transitional Year

The class of 1976 was the largest freshman class in the history of Amelia High School.

Led by their class officers, they executed many activities to boost their treasury, such as car washes and bake sales.

This year, individualization was emphasized. Teams of teachers taught freshman English and mathematics. Also, a new short history course, such as Current Events, was offered to freshmen.

The freshman year bridged the transition from the end of childhood to the beginning of adulthood.

The sophomore class had matured, gaining more freedom and responsibility. They had more choice in the kinds of courses which they could take. Their new responsibility enabled them to participate in more activities, such as the drill team and the annual staff.

Diligently, the sophomores attempted to raise money for their class. One of their many fund-raising activities was sponsoring a dance after a basketball game featuring the band, "Inquest."

Juniors Prepare for Future

The purpose of the junior class was to raise money for the Prom. They used many money-making schemes. Selling candy during school and refreshments after the game were only a part of their fund-raising activities.

During the junior year, high school students must choose their career for the future. Courses such as Business-Office Education and Radio-Television Repair were available to the junior interested in entering a vocation after graduation. Academically-minded-students started their preparations for entering a college.

The juniors exhibited growing maturity and responsibility.

Seniors Experience the Final Year

The Class of '72 found many experiences throughout their first three years of high school, but none so varied and lasting as those of the Senior year which helped to mold the maturing young adults.

Most memorable of the Senior experiences, which highlighted the year, were the Senior Trip and Graduation. However, the more important of the experiences occured during the seemingly every-day activities; e.g., the newspaper drive and candy sale, fund-raising projects for the Trip. An experience shared by members of the Class of '72 only during their final year was the bond created between Seniors because they WERE Seniors. From these bonds arose Senior groups which sat together at pep assemblies, attended "Senior only" parties, and coined Senior words such as "vamp."

Behind all these experiences, hidden, but forever present, existed the realization that soon the Class of '72 would be history and each member out in a new world of experiences. Yet, their experiences, especially as Seniors, served to guide the Class of '72 into maturity.

Student Council Undergoes Change

This year, the Student Council went through several changes. One major change was that all Student Council candidates must have attended a leadership workshop. Council members were elected by their class; but, once elected, each represented a small group of students of all grades and a few teachers through personal contact.

Attempting to give organizations an efficient way to schedule activities, the Student Council developed an Organizations Council within the Student Council body.

This year, the Student Council published the Student Handbook, sponsored the Homecoming, a movie, workshops emphasizing leadership, and Awards Day, and met with the school board to discuss possible changes in the dress code, lunch program, and curriculum.

Excitement Reigns '71 Homecoming

Action, sponsored by the Student Council, packed the week before the 1971 Homecoming. During the week, the students made pep posters in competition. Gary Brooks, the creator of the best poster, won tickets to the game and the dance. On Monday and Tuesday, petitions for attendants were passed out and signed. On Wednesday, the Student Council showed a movie filmed by students. On Thursday night, a weiner roast and a football game between the boys and the girls took place. On Friday, during the pep assembly, the student body learned which of the candidates were to be members of the 1971 Homecoming Court.

The climax of the week was the crowning of Barb Franke as this year's Homecoming Queen. After the football game, a dance with music by Magik ended the exciting week.

Upon hearing that she is to be the 1971 Homecoming Queen, Barb Franke breaks into a radiant smile.

NHS Taps Twenty-eight

The National Honor Society was formed to honor the students who have excelled in the areas of character, scholarship, leadership, and service.

This year, sixteen seniors and twelve juniors were initiated at the annual Thanksgiving Tapping. The theme of this tapping was taken from Ecclesiastes in the Bible, "To every thing there is a season." After the ceremony, the old members, new members, and the Glen Este Honor Society attended a banquet at the main office. Then the senior members went to the Glen Este tapping.

The organization sponsored a canned food drive and a swimming party.

Students Excel In Fall Play

This year, the fall play was "Inherit The Wind." On December thirteenth and fourteenth, the production took place with the aid of Mrs. June Lindsey, the faculty director; and Barb Nicholas, the student director.

The drama told the story of the "Monkey Trial" of Bertram Cates, a young man who dared to teach evolution in a Tennessee high school in 1925. The main issue of the trial was whether or not Darwin's theory of evolution was more true than the Fundamentalist literal translation of Genesis. Gary Brooks and John Momberg played the two famous lawyers who argued the case.

Band Excels

At football games, the Marching Band presented halftime shows. On October 30, it marched in the University of Cincinnati Homecoming Parade.

The Wind Ensemble performed at the Fall Concert, the Honor Society Tapping, the Christmas Concert, and the West Clermont Concert. They also participated in the District Contest in March and the State Contest in April.

Under the direction of Mr. Gerald Robinson, the Jazz Ensemble became one of the best in the Cincinnati area. It performed for the PTA, for the SWOEA, in concerts at Bethel-Tate High School, and Indian Hill School. It participated in the Walnut Hills Jazz Ensemble and hosted the Tri-State Jazz Festival. On January 10, the Jazz Ensemble was featured in an hour special on channel 48. On March 1, the Jazz Ensemble sponsored a concert featuring Maynard Ferguson. In April, the Jazz Ensemble traveled to Boston to compete in the Barkley Jazz Ensemble.

Amelia Combines With Glen-Este at West Clermont Music Festival

Under the direction of Mr. Michael Franklin, the three vocal music groups participated in several activities. They performed at Finneytown H.S., in the Fall Concert, in the Christmas Concert, and in the West Clermont Music Festival. In the Music Festival, the Amelia chorus combined with the Glen-Este chorus. The members of the music department competed in the Solo and Ensemble Contest at Miami University and in the Band and Chorus District Contest in March. The music department also sponsored two skating parties at the Beechmont Rollerena.

The rock ensemble appeared several times by itself. It performed for the Withamsville PTA, at the NHS Tapping, for the Kiwanis Club, at Bethel-Tate H.S., and at a Fairfax Senior Citizens Meeting. During a weekend in October, the rock ensemble attended the Morehead Choral Clinic.

Club Appreciates Fine Arts

The Art Club only required that its prospective members be interested in art. However, members had to agree to attend all meetings and to participate in all club activities.

Social activities included holding "tie-dye" sessions, entering a car in the Homecoming Parade, taking a field trip to the Cincinnati Art Museum, having a dance after a basketball game in December, and sponsoring the Amelia-Glen Este Art Show in January.

Student Assistants Serve Faculty and Pupils

On a volunteer basis, groups of students helped out in both the office and the library.

The office help aided Mrs. Cowan and Mr. Record. They answered the telephone, ran errands, typed, and helped anyone requesting information in the office.

The student librarians formed a club. Its purpose was to review policies and administer instruction in library sciences. They held a used book sale benefiting the yearbook and a book fair raising money for themselves.

'72 Annual Staff Completes Another Baron

It was the duty of the Annual Staff to present the student body with a record of the sights and sounds of the 1971-1972 school year, in the form of the 1972 Baron. Few people outside the staff realized what an arduous task it was to produce an annual. Work started on the 1972 annual in the summer of 1971 and did not end until the summer of 1972. Planning picture days, drawing rough and final draft sheets, filling out picture idea sheets, and writing copy and captions consumed hours of the staff's time, especially before deadlines.

The work would never have been finished without the determination and dedication of the Advisor, Mrs. Luddy, the Editor-in-Chief, Judy White, and the Section Editors: Sara Erhardt (Faculty), Debbie Chandler (Classes), Sandy Rohlfing (Seniors), Jody Fley (Activities), and Dave Burton (Sports). Also, the thousands of dollars necessary to publish an annual would never have been raised without the diligence of Patty Osborne (Business Manager) and Pam Hanselman (Advertising Editor).

Staff Produces The Baron Banner

The newspaper staff underwent a turnover this year. Almost all of the staff members were new.

The newcomers turned to Mrs. Starky, the sponsor, and Patty Osborne, the editor, for guidance. Along with Sharon Marsh and Jerry Gillespie, Patty Osborne attended the Journalism Association of Ohio Schools Workshop at Ohio University in Athens, Ohio.

This year, the staff concentrated on giving more people a chance to voice their views; therefore, they built up the editorial page and made it possible for dissenting articles, as well as favorable ones, to get in the newspaper.

Mrs. Starky supervises as Bev Knauper types an editorial.

Pep Club Buoys School Spirit

All students were eligible to join the Pep Club. The club served to combat student apathy and to increase school spirit.

The club formed a cheering section at games and made pep posters. To encourage Blue Pride and make money at the same time, the members of the club sold booster pins.

The Pep Club operated under the supervision of Mr. James Sargent.

Le Cercle Francais Beautifies School

The purpose of Le Cercle Francais was to promote student interest in the French language and to present an opportunity to develop this interest.

A trip to the Maisonette was the main activity of the year. Also, French Club members cleaned and weeded the flower bed which they planted in front of the school last spring. To improve the French courses, they voted to use some money from the treasury to start a French paperback library.

FRENCH CLUB OFFICERS: L. George, B. White, M. Beckelhymer, S. Erhardt. Johnson, G. Koumoutsos, B. Sears, B.

Spanish Club Ends Year With Picnic

"Los Conquistadores" consisted of Spanish students who want to further their knowledge of the land, language, and customs of Spain.

They had their annual Spanish-style Christmas party and a picnic in the spring. To finance these activities, the club sold Amelia pennants and held bake sales after school.

Formed to honor superior students of the Spanish language, the "Sociedad Honoraria Hispanica" required that its members have a B+ average compiled over a two-year period of Spanish study and a "B" average in other subjects.

Both clubs operated under the supervision of Mr. Kenneth Randall.

FTA Visits Local College

The Future Teachers of America was an organization devoted to learning about the teaching profession and its important role in our society.

At their monthly meetings, the club entertained guest speakers from various fields of education. They also viewed films related to problems and responsibilities found in teaching. The club's extra-curricular activities included helping teachers in the Amelia Junior and Senior High School, observing classes at various schools in the area, and visiting a college campus to discover how to major in education at a university.

Thespians Back School Plays

The National Thespian Society honored those students who had excelled in the theatrical arts. To be initiated into the society, the prospective member must have earned a total of ten points by acting parts in school plays or working backstage. The chief function of the club was to promote the school plays by participating fully in each production.

Campus Life Holds Glass Drive

The purpose of the Campus Life Club was to find the solutions to the problems of today's youth in the Bible. Abandoning the traditional parliamentary order, the club adopted a "rap session" style of meeting.

The members sold candy in November to support their carnival in March. In the spring, they held a glass bottle drive and a picnic.

CAMPUS LIFE OFFICERS: Marilyn Matheus, Barb Collins, Paula Woods, Jenny Wells.

Under the supervision of Mr. James Sargent, the members participated in the Greater Cincinnati Chess League.

CHESS CLUB OFFICERS: Charles Boldt, Harold Wood, Melvin Collini, Sandy Rohlfing.

Drill Team Sparks Enthusiasm

The Boot "n" Tassel consisted of girls in grades ten, eleven, and twelve. In the spring, candidates competed before a faculty committee. The teachers judged the girls on their general appearance, marching ability, and sportsmanlike conduct.

Throughout the school year, the Drill Team Advisor was Miss Judy Achor, who always encouraged each girl to promote school spirit.

Along with the band, the Drill Team performed at half-time during the football and basketball games. Also, the Boot "n" Tassel marched in the University of Cincinnati Homecoming Parade.

Performers Provide Entertainment

The drum major, color guard, and majorettes added an extra flare to the half-time shows of the marching band and drill team. The color guard and majorettes also performed during the basketball half-times.

Directing the marching band on the field was the main function of the drum major.

A faculty committee chose both the majorettes and the color guard. Five majorettes, two more than last year, entertained. The color guard consisted of four girls, two flag bearers and two banner carriers.

CHE Program Expands

Membership in the CHE Club was limited to those enrolled in the Cooperative Home Economics Program. Girls in the CHE Club trained for jobs requiring home economics knowledge and skills, such as the employment fields of food, child care, home management, and clothing. The program embodied instruction with field laboratory and work experience. CHE expanded this year to include training as a teacher's aide.

DECA Honors Employers

Membership in DECA was open only to students enrolled in the Distributive Education Program. DECA developed leaders in the fields of marketing and distribution, provided incentives and recognition for DE seniors, promoted school spirit and community responsibility.

The members aided by their advisors, Mr. Stephen Frank and Mr. Gordon Moore held an "Employer-Employee Banquet" at the Hitching Post.

BOE Girls Attend OOEA Convention

Membership in the B.O.E. Club consisted of girls enrolled in the Business and Office Education Program. Club meetings held during class time permitted maximum participation. The purpose of this organization was to develop leadership abilities by participation in vocational, civic, and social activities through the use of democratic processes.

The main highlight of the year for the B.O.E. Club was the OOEA Regional Convention, which was held at Amelia High School. Several girls, under the supervision of Mrs. Wilma Lutz and Mrs. Edith Collins, also attended the State OOEA Convention.

Unrelenting Barons Salvage 3rd Place in C.C.L.

This year's football Barons fought defiantly for a somewhat unfortunate record. The team closed with a 4-6 record and a third place rating in the CCL.

The season was exceedingly trying for the lean roster of Amelia linemen and backs, and plaguing injuries fought fiercely to keep it that way. The season opener with Glen Este set a pattern of losses that continued for four more consecutive games, among these an aggravating defeat from first place Williamsburg team. Determined and unrelenting the Barons powered their way past four count contenders and brought their record to four wins and five losses. North College Hill halted Amelia's comeback in the final game.

The Barons were close to victory in several of their disappointing losses, and team statistics hardly typify a losing season.

Amelia's Reserve Football Team ran off with first place in the Clermont County League. This year's team was made up of all varsity roster members who did not play four quarters in the actual varsity game. Thus, Mr. Stewart formed his championship team from "left-overs" speaking very highly of the coach and his personnel.

The Reserve Barons compiled a 6-1-1 overall record and scored a seasonal mark of 155 points to their opponents' total of 36. The Reserves were sparked by the excellent running of Tommy Wilson, the leading scorer Mike Rapp, and Vince Cook, along with a defensive squad that compiled five shut outs throughout the season.

The freshmen team placed second in CCL competition this year under the guidance of first-year coach Dennis Rosenhoffer. The freshmen team was especially designated to encourage freshmen participation in Amelia's football program. The team was, of course, to build from the fundamentals; but more importantly it was all team members to compete. In following these instruction the team still merited an overall 3-4-1 record.

Barons Net C.C.L.

Led by Amelia's new coach, Mr. Tom Murphy, the varsity basketball team hustled its way to first place in the Clermont County league. This unified Baron team set its goal, practiced long hours, and reached a pinnacle that made them champions.

A predominately senior team fell only four times to opponent's onslaughts, but just one of these was a county contender. The Barons concentrated heavily on strong defense, team play, and a winning attitude. The result was a constantly exciting and gratifying season.

Freshman Team — A Baron Investment

Amelia's freshman basketball team battled its way to second place in a heavily contested conference. Coached by a new staff member, Mr. Karlos Patterson, the team acquired an 8-2 league record but fell to 8-6 in overall standings.

The freshman team was of greater size than most teams in the past. Mr. Patterson enlisted quite a few athletes to join his squad so as to promote interest in basketball and to teach fundamentals. The team practiced long and hard, and practices even included weight training to develope members physically. The coach was pleased with team's response and its potential.

Reserves Follow Varsity's Example

Amelia's reserve team headed by Mr. Jerry Lindell followed the varsity's example by adding a second championship trophy to Amelia's awards. Baron reserve players compiled a 12-6 record with only 2 county defeats. Mr. Lindell's squad fought fiercely with every competitor but did not match up well with non-county teams. They did, however, acquire valuable experience and momentum in their quest for another trophy next year.

Competitive Champions

Amelia Cross Country enjoyed a very successful season composing a 28-11 record. The team practiced long and hard under the vigil of Coach Karlos Patterson in his first year at Amelia. The effort manifested itself in a second place in the CCL and a fifth place in the Sectional meet.

Outstanding runners for this year's team included John Wellerding who finished first in the District Meet and twenty-first in the State, along with Danny Hollabaugh who traveled to both meets.

Amelia's Wrestling team demonstrated a keen desire to win amid a storm of inexperience and physical set-backs. Returning coach, Mr. Curtis Shaw and his assistant coach, Mr. Dennis Rosenhoffer, found each match a source of mental turmoil, but in spite of the difficulties, the Barons pinned down a 10-8 record and a 5th place in the C.C.L. tournament.

Intramurals Build Balanced Individuals

Boys' intramurals directed by Mr. Thomas Jones enjoyed a year filled with the "joys" of athletics. These joys manifested themselves in petty arguments between opponents, colorful discussions with referees, and screams of disappointment or happiness depending on the final outcome. In general all those things with which future gentlemen will have to cope made themselves felt in the intramural activities. Oddly, that was the idea behind intramurals - to build well-rounded individuals.

G.A.A. Seeks Wider Range of Participation

The Girls' Athletic Association attempted to grow through providing more athletic opportunities for more students. The focus was diverted away from the standard quest for victory and aimed toward a true appreciation of each sport. The sponsor, Miss Carol Fisher, and the various officers felt that appreciation for a wider range of sports will have more impact in the future than a weak concept of victory.

Varsity's Veterans Come on Strong

Holding to GAA's precept of striving for understanding through their sports competition, the volleyball team posted a somewhat surprising record. The varsity team fell only twice in seven games, and their losses were to Deer Park and McNicholas, not county contenders. The reserves, however, were less fortunate, winning only two matches out of their total schedule.

Reserves Battle for Experience

The Girls' Basketball team paralleled the volleyball team in degree of success. The veteran varsity squad was very successful with county teams defeating Goshen in their season's opener, but not making out as well with other contenders. Lacking playing experience, the reserve team met with great difficulty, falling twice in the first two games.

Cheerleaders Battle to Boost Baron Morale

This year's squad of cheerleaders confronted many difficulties from their initiation at the beginning of football season. That elusive commodity of school spirit sought by a minority stubborn-minded students climbed, fell, and finally peaked in a basketball county championship. The varsity and reserve cheerleaders fought as fiercely on their own battlefield as any of the athletes that they represented. They battled to rejeuvenate pep assemblies and to make being a "Baron" an honor.

Barons "Spring" Into Action

Amelia's Barons of the ball diamond proved themselves worthy of Spring's vitality. The young team battled a 10-3 season and managed to pull into second place in the county. Unsatisfied with this second rating, they journeyed on to place first in Sectional Tournament and second in the District.

Amelia's golf team chipped on to a prosperous new green of victory this season. Baron golfers set a new record of nine wins and eventually placed 4th in the district. The young team, coached by Mr. Ed Caudill, had continual improvement and pledged to be an even stronger team in the future.

Track Team Runs Gauntlet of Misfortune

Amelia's Track Team floundered through another year of moderate success. It was a disappointing season for this team of great potential. Expectations were continually lowered as the personnel grew more scarce. The team began the season with good showings in dual and triangular meets and constantly improved for the big one ... the County. The Anderson Invitational was perhaps the team's best showing of the year. Amelia placed second due to the outstanding achievements of a fast-paced, invigorated team. However, enthusiasm slowly dwindled and almost disappeared by county time. The team had its work cut out for it. The breaks just did not come the Baron's way as they found themselves in fourth place in the Clermont County Track Meet. This year's coach, Mr. Ken Stewart, did not receive many meet victories; however, he did lead the team to many individual marks, including the Mason Medley, mile relay, 220, and 440.

Girls' Track Puts It Together

The Amelia Girls' Track Team underwent a season of transition. They experimented with the hypothesis that team spirit naturally generated with the stimulation of individual spirit, and they initiated the practice of including each girl in a variety of events. If success were to be judge, then this season's track team was definitely founded in its beliefs. They did consistently well in smaller meets and even better in the bigger ones. For instance, they placed fourth out of ten schools at Princeton and ran off with first place in the Clermont County Meet.

Debbie Bolen looks forward to a good throw in discus competition.

Prom Moves to the Lookout House

The Junior-Senior Prom of 1971 was focused around the theme, "We've Only Just Begun." Hosted by the Juniors for the class of '71, the tradition of holding the Prom at the Sheraton-Gibson Hotel was broken as couples journeyed to the Lookout House.

Eleven-thirty proved to be the magical hour as Gary West and Cathy Crawford were crowned King and Queen. The court dance then ensued to the rhythm of the Dick Purdy Orchestra.

Afterwards, the scene moved to downtown Cincinnati at the Times Theater where the final touch to the lovely evening being added by the movie, "Little Big Man."

Invitations were sent by the Junior Class to all seniors and faculty members.

Student Council Rewards Achievements

Once again the governing body of Amelia High School took control of the Awards Day Program. Considered the most relaxed one, the Student Council presented many deserving awards to both students and faculty.

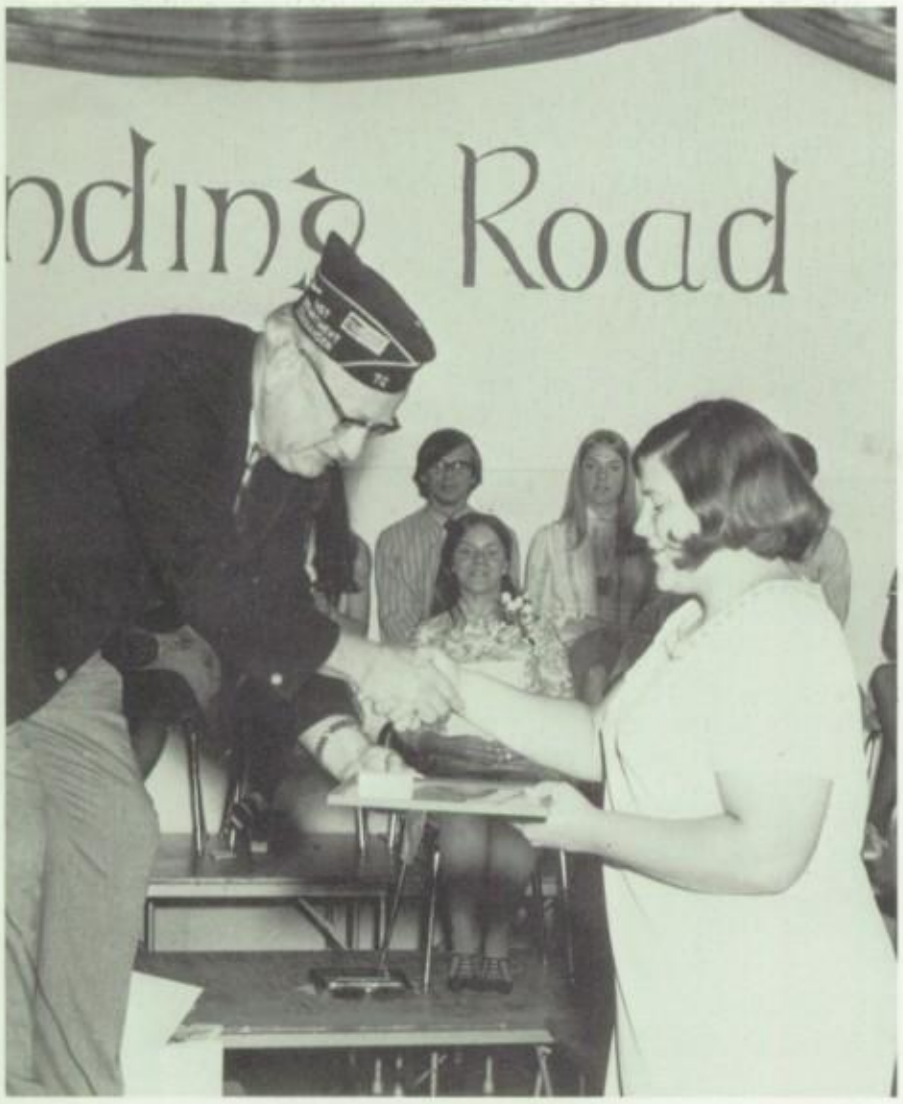
The Amelia Concert Choir sang the theme, THE LONG AND WINDING ROAD which symbolized the accomplishments of the student body through their year at school.

The highlight of the program came into focus when Cathy Crawford, the President of Student Council, was selected outstanding Senior Girl of 1971. Following this selection was outstanding Senior boy who was none other than Dave Cook.

Deservingly, Mr. Cornn, the Assistant Principal accepts a gift from Student Council.

With a smile of gratitude, Sandra Rohlfing accepts an award for her outstanding achievements in English III - Academic.

Exchanging brotherly love, Kevin McCarty acknowledges the new National Honor Society President, Brian McCarty.



By accepting the American Legion Award, Lloyd Hamilton takes his first step on the "Winding Road" of success.

Having given her ALL, Mary Lou Sigsby reaches for the distinguished award given each year by the American Legion.

CHOOL - CLASS '71
AMERICANA YOU

The senior's journey begins as they pass beneath the arbor.

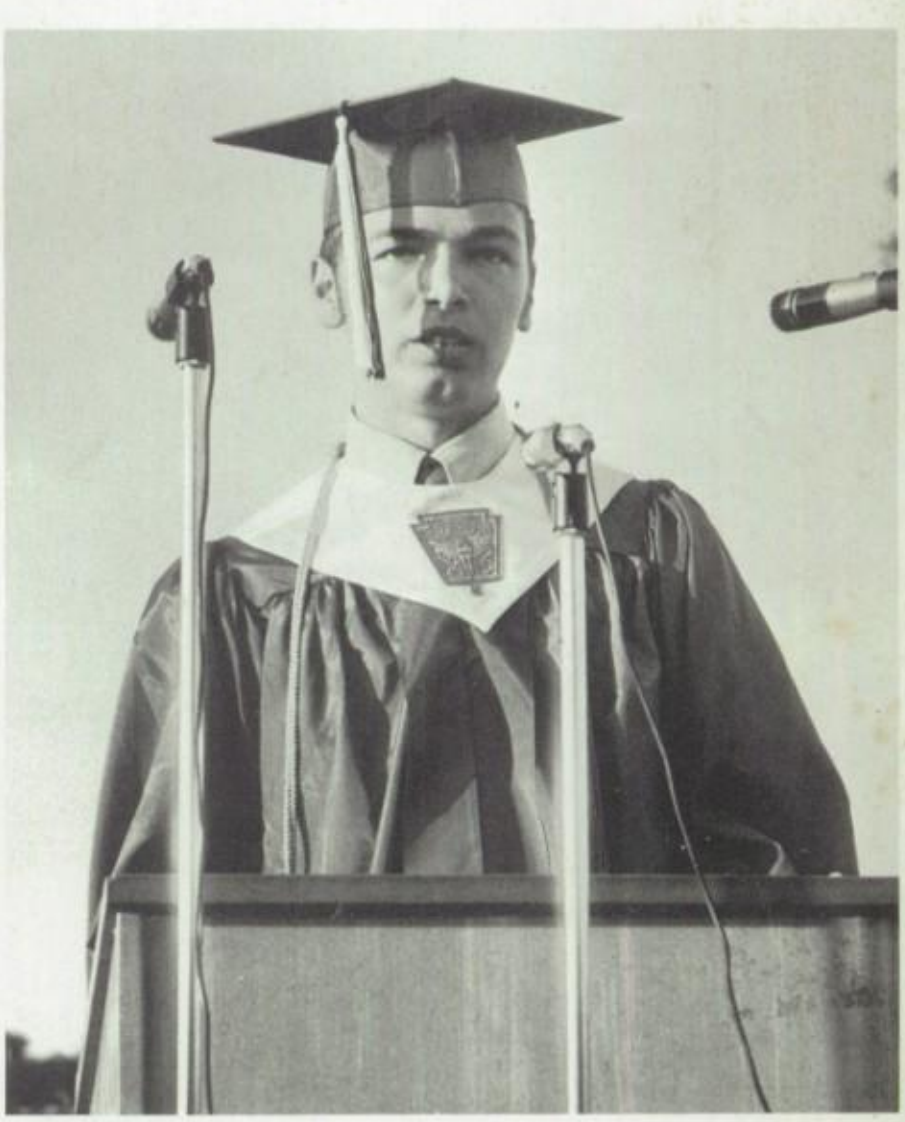
Janet Thompson reflects upon all that graduation entails.

A Journey Begins With Graduation

Graduation of the class of '71 symbolized the end of a journey as well as "A Journey's Beginning," the theme chosen by the seniors for their final debut. The emotions of the occasion were both sad and joyous as the graduates reminisced as well as looked to the future.

Baccalaureate took place in the afternoon with the participants assembled in the gym for the service. That evening commencement was again held under the stars as the graduating class of '71 finished their high school careers in the Brad Braughten Memorial Stadium. Their chosen song, "Exodus," complemented the theme of "A Journey's Beginning.

The honored speakers of the evening, Ron Stephens, Valedictorian; Linda Eichelberger, Salutatorian; and Claudette Rohling, Historian, traced the Class of 1971 from their freshman year into the future. The affair closed on a note of optimism as the "grads" diverged upon their individual journeys armed with knowledge, experience, and a long-awaited diploma.



Valedictorian Ron Stephens delivers his address.
